SIR ARTHUR CURRIE WILL DIRECT TRADE DRIVE TO ENGLAND

Legion President Reveals Plan to Crusade in Great Britain for Greater Use of Canadian Goods—Idea Is to Increase Employment Among Veterans Here

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, July 27 (CP).—Proposal to send a group of distinguished Canadians, former members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, under leadership of General Sir Arthur Currie, of Montreal, on a new Empire trade crusade to the United Kingdom was put forward today by Major John S. Roper, president of the Canadian Legion.

This "crusade" to boost trade between Canada and the Mother Country was outlined by Major Roper in an address to the convention of the British Empire Service League during discussion of Empire trade.

NOTABLE GROUP

"Our appeal to the British people," declared Major Roper, "will be made directly on behalf of Canada's unemployed soldiers. At the appropriate time we propose to bring over to this country, with the co-operation and assistance of the British Empire Service League and of the British Legion, a group of our most distinguished soldier-citizens, statesmen, professional men, business men—a group which will represent the very highest qualities in our national life.

"We propose to hold a series of meetings all over Great Britain when addresses will be made to the British people generally and to the trading and financial intetrests in particular."

MOVE ENDORSED

General Sir Arthur Currie, commander of the Canadian corps during the war, now principal of McGill University, would lead the Canadian group, Major Roper revealed. The proposal had been endorsed, he added, by the Prince of Wales and approved by Dominions Secretary J. H. Thomas, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner in London, and the Empire Council of the British Empire Service League.

"We propose at such a time to vividly recall the memories of 1914

HEAT CLAIMS MORE VICTIMS

Five Deaths Are Recorded in California, Where Mercury Sets Record

Blistering weather continued to grip much of the Pacific Coast yesterday, though some relief was reported at places from the broiling temperatures of the day before.

Fresno, hot spot of the Central California Valley land, reported a mercury reading of 114 degrees.

HEAT RECORD

Five deaths were attributed to the heat in California. Two men succumbed on the Southern California Desert near Riverside. A sixteen-day-old baby died at Hanford, where the mercury rose to 116 degrees, a record. Physicians said the heat contributed to the deaths of a woman in Fresno and a year-old girl in Sanger.

At Sacramento, farther north, the mercury climbed to 108 degrees, two degrees lower than the previous day.

In Southern California, the heat wave which, Wednesday, caused four deaths, relaxed somewhat, although two additional deaths were reported from desert areas.

The United States Weather Bureau maximum at Los Angeles was 98, five degrees lower.

NORTHWEST COOLER

The Pacific Northwest was cooler and Seattle was dry as July 27 went without rain for the forty-third consecutive year. Walla Walla with a maximum of 90 degrees was comfortable after the heat wave which sent the mercury up to 102 Sunday.

Eastern Oregon had cooling west breezes to bring relief from the previous day's sweltering weather. The maximum at Portland was 74.

REGINA, July 27 (CP).—Moose Jaw shared heat honors with La Fleche today as Southern Saskatchewan sweltered in the third day of a heat wave. For the second day the mercury ran up to the 106-mark at Moose Jaw, while La Fleche today climbed to that point for the first time. Other points had temperatures ranging from 100 to 105.

Clearings Soar With Grain Deals

WINNIPEG, July 27 (CP).—Said by business men to be the result of exceptionally heavy grain trade, bank clearings in Winnipeg for the week ending today show an increase of 366 per cent over the corresponding week last year. The figures for the week ending today are $151,304,182, compared with $40,672,877 for the same week in 1932

FOREST FIRES BURN HOMES

Families Flee Before Flames in Interior of Province

NELSON, July 27 (CP).—Forest fires were raging in the Rockies tonight, four conflagrations spreading their flames through timber country, destroying farm buildings and forcing families to vacate their homes.

From Cranbrook reports of a fire raging in the bush just north of the city which had burned henhouses and a $5,000 barn on the farm of A. Benson, on Patton Lake. Stock and fowl were driven to a place of safety. One hundred firefighters saved the Benson dwelling house as high winds drove the flames along, threatening other farms.

The eastbound Kettle Valley train, due at Nelson tonight, was held up several hours by a fire in the mountain section around Fife and Lafferty. Canadian Pacific Railway crews, numbering 150 men, were thrown into the fray to check the flames.

Ten miles in length, another conflagration was reported between Beaverdell and Carmi, where a section of the C.P.R. right-of-way was threatened. It was also feared if the wind continued, the Beaverdell and Wellington mines would be in precarious positions.

FLEE TO SAFETY

Westerly winds were driving onward the fourth forest outbreak at Goose Creek, which was raging over a large area. The ranch property of Lee Langill in this territory fell prey to the fire, and three other homes were in danger. Five families in the vicinity fled their homes to seek safety at Crescent Valley.

WASHINGTON FIRES

SEATTLE, July 27 (AP).—The forest fire raging in the Beckler River valley, in Northeastern King County, was sweeping over a 1,500-acre area tonight, compared with 800 acres last night, and was being driven into green timber by a strong northwest wind.

Returning from a flight over the area through a heavy smoke pall, Assistant Supervisor C. J. Conover, of the Snoqualmie National Forest, declared it was forging up the north bank of Skykomish River toward Beckler Peak.

HUNDREDS BATTLE

On the ground, 500 men, most of them young civilian conservation corps members, were battling the flames, smoke grimed and weary.

Meanwhile, upwards of two score other smaller fires were reported over Western Washington, in the season's first serious outbreak of fires.

ADJOURN AFTER FIRST SUCCESS

Wheat Negotiators Will Re-Assemble Next Month to Implement Agreement

LONDON, July 27 (AP).—After having agreed in principle upon the necessity for restriction of acreage, the big four wheat negotiators adjourned their deliberations, today, until August 21, when they will reassemble here to work for improvement of the world market through international action.

A communique announced the four exporting countries—Canada, United States, Argentina, and Australia—have reached an understanding in principle as to how they will co-operate in the proposed wheat scheme, and have also reached an understanding with four Danubian countries as to their part in the plan.

"While no agreement has yet been reached between exporting and importing countries," the communique said, "there appears to be reasonable prospects of the difficulties at present existing being adjusted if further consultation takes place."

Where Mollison's Airplane Wrecked

THIS Central Press Canadian photograph shows wrecked plane Seafarer, in which James Mollison and his wife, Amy Johnson, crashed in marshes outside of the airport at Bridgeport, Conn., less than sixty miles short of their New York City goal, after crossing the ocean. Their fuel had run out. Mollison was slightly injured, while his wife was shaken up and bruised.

British Premier States Co-operation Possible But Not for Some Time

Brave Lad Risks Life to Save Boy Caught in Sands

MERRITT, July 27.—Plunging into the swollen waters of the Nicola River, about a mile from here, David Ovington, aged fifteen, swam across to where Lawrence Ogden, aged ten, was being slowly sucked into a bed of quicksand, and held onto him for over an hour, until the little fellow was rescued.

When Barney Ogden, the boy's father, reached the scene, the child was embedded up to the waist. Attempts to pull him out proving useless, they dug around him with their hands, the sand filling in as fast as they dug. When at last they pulled him out, so great was the suction that he was pulled clean out of his boots.

There is no doubt that were it not for the pluck and presence of mind of young Ovington, the child would have been gradually drawn down and smothered.

Labor Minister Issues Warning To B.C. Industry

Hon. W. M. Dennies Intimates Unless Employers Eliminate Overtime and Increase Wages Government Will Take Action and Introduce Legislation to Enforce Changes

BRITISH Columbia industries must observe the Hours of Work Act, or they will be visited with sharp remedial measures, Hon. W. M. Dennies, new Provincial Minister of Labor, stated last evening in his first public announcement concerning affairs under his direction.

In a statement made after Cabinet approval, Mr. Dennies deplored conditions he said existed in some industries in regard to hours of work and wages, and made an appeal for voluntary redress of these complaints. If voluntary action were not taken, he asserted, the Province would itself step in to set matters right, either by Provincial regulation, or special legislation.

The minister's written statement follows:

"Authentic reports continue to indicate an increase in many lines of business and information from many sources would seem to point to a general upward trend. This is true in several of the basic industries of the Province, the increase in volume of the export lumber trade, as well as the renewed activity in metal mining, being particularly noteworthy.

"CUT-THROAT TACTICS"

"The low rates of pay obtaining in some industrial plants is to be greatly deplored, especially where a considerable disparity exists in wage rates paid by firms competing in the same line of business, making it extremely difficult for the employer who is trying to pay decent wages, when others are using cut-throat tactics by cutting down the wages of their employees and creating unhealthy conditions.

"The situation with regard to wages and hours of work is far from satisfactory. In some cases the wages paid in industry are not on what may be termed a subsistence level, apart entirely from a fair wage scale, and unless this condition is speedily corrected, remedial measures can not long be withheld.

"Many complaints are coming in to the Department of Labor regarding a number of firms in the

WOULD LIKE TO WIN EXPENSES

American Bridge Team to Start Private Match for Little Wager

LONDON, July 28 (AP).—The American bridge quartette, which Ely Culbertson led to victory last week in the tournament for the Charles M. Schwab Trophy, will take to the tables again this afternoon in a 120-board private match against a four-man team led by Captain Lindsay Mundy.

The American captain and challenger is betting £1,350 against Captain Mundy's £900, not to win money, Culbertson said, but "to cover our expenses in staying in London and in compensation for missing American matches."

The match will be concluded Monday night.

Besides Mundy, the British team includes Captain Ewart Kempson, Mr. Wraith, and Mr. Hutson. The Americans are Mr. and Mrs. Culbertson, Theodore A. Lightner, and Michael T. Gottlieb

U.S. Upheaval Cause of Conference Stalemate—Roosevelt Not Responsible

ANXIOUS TO EFFECT WHEAT AGREEMENT

LONDON, July 27 (CP).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald tonight laid the adjournment of the World Economic Conference to "the great upheaval now going on in the United States to recover prosperity," which "has unsettled for the time being the value of the dollar."

The Prime Minister said no one was to blame. Uncontrollable conditions had arisen and "we might as well blame the Creator as the American Government.

NOT IN HURRY

"I am sure agreement is possible," he continued, "but not in a hurry."

Mr. MacDonald, who earlier in the day presided at the closing plenary session of the gathering, found in the Conference "a whisper of the imperishable approach of world co-operation, and embodiment of the lit, 'It's coming yet for a' that.'

"It would have been a miracle," he said, "in view of the size of the conference, the nature of business, the uncertain conditions of the world, had this one not been held up at some point. But do remember that being held up is not being ended. The obstacles are removable and they will be removed."

DEBTS UNBEARABLE

Referring to war debts, Mr. MacDonald said: "The nations of the world cannot carry their debts and the sooner we all recognize that the better."

INDICTED FOR RACKETEERING

Aaron Sapiro Among Other Men Charged With Terrorism

CHICAGO, July 27 (AP).—Reputable attorneys and industrial arbiters, labor union bosses, plain hoodlums and Al Capone himself were named alike in a blanket indictment today, charging twenty-four men with bombing, acid-throwing, and restraint of legitimate trade through terrorism.

EMINENT DEFENDANTS

Eminent among the defendants were: Aaron Sapiro, New York attorrney, a pioneer organizer of the co-operative marketing movement in the United States, named because he was counsel for nearly a year of the Chicago Laundry Owners' Association. He quit June 2.

Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, University of Chicago lecturer on economics, Federal labor mediator, who was appointed head of the Master Cleaners and Dyers' Institute of Chicago for the announced purpose of eradicating the gangster element in that industry and end a war of price-cutting, bombing and acid hurling.

Alderman Oscar Nelson, Republican leader of the city council, attorney for the Dye House Drivers' Union.

Murray Humphreys, heir to Capone as public enemy No. 1, business boss of the syndicate, a fugitive now from Federal indictments charging that he, like Capone,

BRITISH NATIONS RE-AFFIRM OTTAWA CONFERENCE PACTS

Dominions Sign Important Declaration at London—Ultimate Restoration of Gold Standard Is Empire Aim—Principle of Raising Wholesale Prices Is Endorsed

Negotiations Were Held in Secret During World Parley

LONDON, July 27 (CP). — Reaffirmation of the agreements reached at the Imperial Economic Conference, held last year at Ottawa, and the need for the ultimate restoration of an international gold standard are set forth in an important declaration signed today by Empire delegates to the World Economic Conference, at a meeting held after the conclusion of the international gathering.

The declaration points to the necessity of higher wholesale prices and recognizes the importance of stability of inter-Empire exchange rates in the interests of Empire trade.

SECRET TALKS

Today's announcement marks the conclusion of weeks of negotiation conducted in the strictest secrecy—sometimes in private houses and sometimes in Cabinet offices in Whitehall—and is signed by representatives of the United Kingdom, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India. No signature was appended on behalf of the Irish Free State, whose representative referred the matter to his Government.

The delegates declared they were satisfied the Ottawa agreement had already had beneficial effects on inter-Imperial trade, and the benefits were likely to continue. They reaffirmed the necessity for lowering inter-Imperial barriers to facilitate Empire and world trade.

SUCCESS SEEN

The declaration states again the principles of the Ottawa agreements concerning the raising of wholesale prices and notes this policy has attained an encouraging measure of success in this connection it is pointed out that since June, 1932, the price of beef in the United Kingdom has risen 12 per cent, while the rise in British prices of primary products for the same period has been about 20 per cent.

The delegations consider, therefore, it is important the Commonwealth should pursue, within the limits of sound finance, a price-raising policy until evidence of equilibrium is re-established and when the position could be stabi-

David Hutton Is Target for Eggs On First Night

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 27 (AP).—In his first night appearance behind Hollywood footlights, David L. Hutton, ex-choir leader of Angelus Temple, became the target for a volley of eggs, thrown by a woman in the audience tonight.

The portly singer, who began a stage career just before he filed his divorce suit, came to Hollywood today for a week. At his matinee appearance this afternoon he was accorded generous rounds of applause.

PARLEY MAY MEET AGAIN

World Economic Conference Comes to An End Amid Blunt Words

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, July 27.—The World Economic Conference adjourned indefinitely today, with British and United States leaders joining in declarations the work must go on at the soonest opportune moment.

Five hours of speech making, in which some of the leading delegates frankly confessed very little progress had been made, were capped by the declarations of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, chairman of the conference, and President Franklin D. Roosevelt of United States, that the ambitious international effort to solve the world's problems must not be allowed to lapse.

TAKES RECESS

Prime Minister MacDonald emphatically told the conference, in adjourning it to meet again if and when the steering committee decides the situation is more promising of results, the conference was merely taking a recess. It was not closing down. "I bid you adieu in the firm conviction that before many months have passed I shall have the pleasure of offering you a welcome again," he said.

President Roosevelt, in a surprise message to Mr. MacDonald as conference chairman, declared "results are not always measured in terms of formal agreements. They can come equally from a free presentation of each nation's difficulties and each nation's methods to meet its individual needs." He pledged his country's continued efforts for world recovery.

PLAIN SPEAKING

"We have no reason to congratulate ourselves with the results obtained," was the outspoken comment of Premier Henry Colijn, of Holland, chairman of the economic commission.

"There is no need to disguise the fact," added Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, "that we are greatly disappointed to have to record today that very little

SINKS IN SAND INJURING FIVE

Australian Aviator's Plane Comes to Grief on Coast of Ireland

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, July 27 (AP).—The plans of Captain Charles T. P. Ulm, and his three Australian countrymen to fly across the Atlantic to North America were set back today when their heavily-laden plane sank into the beach at Portmarnock Airdrome and injured five persons.

The landing gear and wing struts of the plane were bent, and it may be several days before the ship can be made ready for the air.

A score of Civic Guards were attempting to lift a wheel of the plane onto a plank when the undercarriage collopsed.

Ulm had planned to take off as soon as the weather permitted for Harbor Grace, Nfld., thence to New York as part of a flight around the world, starting and ending in Australia.

Vancouver Vessel Fighting Leak off Alaska in Icy Sea

Ss. Anyox, Under Charter to Hudson's Bay Company, Wirelesses Ship in Danger—Later Reports Efforts to Patch Hole

SEATTLE, July 27 (AP). — Springing a leak near the Arctic ice pack, 200 miles south of Point Barrow, Alaska, the Canadian steamer Anyox wirelessed today that it was feared the crew would "have to abandon ship," but another message said late tonight that a "patch" had been placed, and the pumps were holding the water.

The first message was sent about noon to the vessel's owners, the Pacific Salvage Company, of Vancouver, the coast guard here reported, and said that the ship was taking water rapidly.

No details of how the leak developed was given, but it was said that it was feared the ship would have to be abandoned.

OBTAIN NEWS

The Pacific Salvage Company then got in touch with the coast guard here, after being unable to reach the Anyox through Canadian radio stations, and the cutter Northland, in the Bering Sea, was messaged.

Late tonight the Northland wirelessed that it had been in communication with the stricken ship.

"Anyox reports that a patch has been placed," the Northland wirelessed in reply, "and pumps holding water. Hoped to save the ship."

GOING TO AID

The Northland said that it was putting out immediately from Shishmaref Inlet, north of the Seward Peninsula, to race to the disabled ship, but that the Anyox was 400 or 500 miles away.

At the coast guard station here, the Anyox's position was placed as off Icy Cape, on the far northwestern shores of Alaska.

The coast guard said that with the ice to fight in the Bering Sea the Northland might be two days in reaching the Anyox.

VANCOUVER SHIP

VANCOUVER, July 27 (CP).—The steamer Anyox left here July 6 under charter to the Hudson's Bay Company for the annual visit to trading posts in the Arctic Ocean. She was commanded by Captain D. B. Johnson, of Vancouver, and carried a crew of twenty-one men.

Officials of the Pacific Salvage Company, owners of the vessel, said that they had received word tonight the United States cutter Northland was in the vicinity of the crippled vessel. No details of the extent of the damage to the craft had been received here, it was stated.

The Anyox is a wooden vessel of about 1,000 tons register.

HOME BUYING MAKES WORK

Minister of Trade Urges Canadians to Help Themselves

OTTAWA, July 27 (CP).—Urging Canadians to do their bit to produce employment, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, in a statement today, declared every purchase of commodities literally meant a contribution towards creation of jobs for "the other fellow." The statement, issued in support of a revival-of-business campaign in the Dominion, follows:

LOCAL AID

"While all the nations of the world have been struggling to find a solution to the universal unemployment promblem, it may be well for us to remember that after all the solution rests in the restoration of purchasing power. Therefore, every purchase of commodities literally means a contribution towards the creation of jobs for the other fellow.

"If you can build a house, repair or repaint the old one, purchase some clothes or any other commodity, you will make the finest contribution toward the solution of the problem in your own locality.

REASONABLE PRICES

"Don't forget that you can still buy good Canadian merchandise and materials of all kinds at the most reasonable prices; therefore if you are able to buy something that is useful or that you need, do it now, and thus do your bit towards creating jobs for the other fellow."

ROBBER SUSPECT SHOT BY POLICE

Policeman Also Hit in a Duel at Downey, California, After Robbery

LOS ANGELES, July 27 (AP).—A bank robber suspect, Ray E. Griffith, twenty-eight, Spokane, Wash., was near death, tonight, in a Downey hospital; another was in jail, and W. J. Hernlein, constable, was recovering from three bullet wounds he suffered in a running gun fight with them.

Earl Wall, twenty-six, Los Angeles, was jailed after Hernlein and his deputy, J. J. Moran, shot it out with Griffith and Wall when they left the First National Bank of Downey. Loot of $1,000 was recovered.

progress has been made towards our goal."

Yet none questioned that the conference had begun a task which should be carried to its conclusion. James M. Cox, of the United States, chairman of the monetary commission, thought the conference had had distinctly worth-while results. He predicted that when the national industrial units had been restored, trade would again begin crossing the frontiers.

Cox did not believe domestic ventures rendered necessary by extraordinary times would be a thing of fixed permanent policy.

ALL DISAPPOINTED

The atmosphere was considerably different from the opening session June 12, when the delegates were stirred by fiat declarations the conference must succeed, and the King said he hoped all would co-operate for the ultimate common good of the world. Hanging over the proceedings was a veil of obvious disappointment.

Colijn considered the conference results both highly disappointing and dangerous because they might lead to aggravation of the present situation.

Neville Chamberlain proceeded that a number of important and urgent questions vitally affecting world economic recovery had only just been outlined. Circumstances prevented any more than preliminary exploration of the establishment of a firm international monetary standard.

NEED IS GREAT

"Let us not attempt to attribute blame to anyone," said Mr. Chamberlain. "Let us rather recognize circumstances beyond our control have been too strong for us, and that we must await more propitious conditions before resuming our labors.

"Nothing is more certain than that our troubles can only be removed by international co-operation founded on international good will."

Both Guido Jung, of Italy, and Paul Hymans, of Belgium, repeated their countries' firm adhesion to the gold standard.

SILVER SUCCESS

Finance Minister Georges Bonnet of France reported for the monetary and financial commission, declaring "we feel the conference will appreciate the value of the results recorded." He alluded to the resumption of the congress and expressed the hope for "even wider results."

M. Bonnet cited the definite accomplishment of a silver agreement to restore the market and prevent future debasement of the metal. "Such accomplishments as these," he said, "are beyond doubt definite guarantees of the future."

COW MAKES RECORD

WOODSTOCK, Ont., July 27 (CP).—Netherfield Bright Jean, eleven-year-old Jersey cow owned by E. W. Nesbitt, has completed a record. In 365 days she gave 11,809 pounds of milk, with an average test of 5.31 per cent.

ENGLISH DRIVER HUSTLES ALONG

Knocks Fraction Off Scheduled Time of Crack American Express

ELKHART, Ind., July 27 (AP).—The Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes whipped through the breeze side by side today as a famous English engine-driver, William Gilbertson, of Carlisle, shoved the Twentieth Century Limited from Chicago into Elkhart two minutes ahead of time.

Gilbertson, and J. Jackson, his stoker on the Royal Scot of the London-Edinburgh run, took over the cab of the New York Central train on the first leg of their homeward trip from the Century of Progress at Chicago. The engineer and his fireman had come to this country to display the crack British passenger train at the World's Fair.

English trains, the engineer said, run more smoothly than the American expresses because the English type of automatic couplings prevents slack between coaches and eliminates resultant jerkiness.

He said the English trains were not air-cooled, but that English coaches were cleaner than American ones.

ized. They also consider the expansion of a government's programme of capital outlay as a matter for the respective governments in the light of their own circumstances.

GOLD STANDARD

The Ottawa policy for the ultimate restoration of the gold standard under which international co-operation would be secured with a view to avoiding as far as practicable undue fluctuations in the purchasing power of gold is also reaffirmed in the declaration.

The problem with which gold is faced, the announcement says, is to reconcile stability in exchange rates with a reasonable measure of stability not merely in the price level of a particular country, but in world prices. The delegates state any further sessions of the World Economic Conference must give this matter special prominence.

EMPIRE EXCHANGE

"In the meantime the Empire delegation recognizes the importance of the stability of inter-Empire exchange rates in the interests of trade," the declaration adds. "This is facilitated by the fact that the United Kingdom has no commitments with other countries in regard to the future management of sterling, and retains complete freedom of action in this respect. The adherence of other countries to a similar policy would make a wider exchange stability possible."

Special importance is attached to the decline in the rate of interest on long-term loans, the declaration states. The delegation notes with satisfaction on the progress made in that direction, as well as in the resumption of overseas lending by the London market. They agree further advances along these lines will be beneficial when they can be made.

The delegations will recommend their governments consult one another periodically on matters of monetary and economic policy with a view to establishing their common purpose and framing necessary measures.

The Prime Minister said one of the most interesting questions pursued by committees of the Conference was whether it was possible, and if so, how, to get the wheat-producing countries like Canada, United States, Argentina and Australia to come to an agreement upon the volume of production which they are to market. It seemed to him one could limit production by bankruptcy of the producer or by reason, and he preferred the latter.

PRICES TOO LOW

There was universal agreement, he said, the world wholesale prices of primary products should be raised. One of the reasons there was unemployment in Great Britain was because farmers in the United States, New Zealand, Australia and Canada had for a long time failed to get due reward for their labor.

With reference to the unsettled value of the United States dollar, Mr. MacDonald said the countries most frightened were those still on the gold standard. "Most of these countries had already gone through terrible experiences of inflation, which had brought important sections of their people to ruin."

dodged the Government's income tax bill.

ROUNDING UP

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney dispatched deputies to round up the defendants as soon as the indictment, which had been suppressed since Friday, was made public.

Courtney telegraphed New York police to arrest Sapiro. Dr. Squires communicated with the state's attorney by telephone, asking leave to surrender with an attorney when he was able to provide the $10,000 bond fixed for each defendant. Alderman Nelson was touring Europe with his family.

Aaron Sapiro is well known in Western Canada through his efforts to organize producers' pools both on the Prairies and in British Columbia.

OTTAWA, July 27 (CP).—Lumber companies all over Canada are gradually benefiting by the steady increase in export trade of all kinds of wood to foreign markets, but especially to England and the United States, executives of Ottawa wholesale and retail lumber firms said today. A review of the situation was made by the Ottawa Journal.

European Police Amazed At Crime Record of U.S.

CHICAGO, July 27 (AP).—Amazement at the bravado, gunplay and kidnapping activities of American gangsters was expressed by European police chiefs today.

Their concensus was that "such things could not happen across the waters."

The anti-crime officials, from fourteen foreign lands and twenty-two American cities, conferred for the announced purpose of promoting international police good will.

Roderick Ross, chief constable of Edinburgh, Scotland, branded kidnapping the "most vicious, most despicable and most atrocious crime of all."

"We have none of it in Scotland," he declared. "Criminals wouldn't dare try their hand at it, because they know we'd catch them. No doubt the public is in a large part to blame for it, because of the tolerance of intimidation and the reluctance of witnesses to identify and testify against the kidnappers."

The Edinburgh chief urged criminals be shown no mercy.

"Don't mollycoddle your convicts," he advised. "Meet violence with violence. If they want to shoot it out, shoot it out—but be sure they are the ones who get killed."

Richard Krause, chief of police of Horscna, Denmark, and Valvemar Menson, president of the Royal Government Police, of Denmark, agreed crime was so scarce in their country that home owners might safely leave their doors unlocked at night.

DEATH SENTENCE FOR KIDNAPPER

Missouri Jury Returns First Verdict of Its Kind Under New Law

KANSAS CITY, July 27 (AP). — A smash at the kidnapping racket—the first death verdict—was delivered here today by a Missouri jury which convicted Walter McGee, confessed leader in the $30,000 ransom kidnapping of Miss Mary McElroy.

The twenty-five-year-old victim, her father, city manager H. F. McElroy, Attorney-General Cummings in Washington and other officials engaged in the nation-wide crusade to stamp out kidnapping and racketeering, hailed the verdict as one that would put a check on abductions.

"I FOUND RELIEF SO I'LL TELL YOU"

Read How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped This Quebec Woman—Let It Help You

"After the birth of my last baby I suffered with many of those disorders peculiar to women. Pains all over my body, especially in the abdomen, weakness in my legs, loss of appetite, nervous and blue. One of my friends insisted that I ought to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took five bottles and felt as well as ever. I never miss a chance to encourage other women to give it a trial."—Mrs. Samuel Belanger, P. O. Box 17, Point Gatineau, Quebec.

Sinclair Comes to End of India Where All Men Are Armed

Finds Himself Truly in the Land of the Great Unwashed—Sees Englishmen Only Guards of China's Southern Frontier

By GORDON SINCLAIR

BHAMO, Burma.—"This is the end of India," the Scot said, waving a fat hand. "Over on the right there is China, up here on the left is Tibet."

It certainly looked like the fringe of the silences. Central Asia hemmed us in with low stunted jungle. A narrow concrete road ended in dirt tracks and over those tracks mile-long caravans diverged left and right for Mongolia or Tibet and tinkled musically away nose to tail, tail to nose. No camels here, but shaggy thick-legged ponies, grey ponies hairy as cocoanuts.

In the caravan which swung into the icy winds blowing down from Tibet were three plug-nosed Gurkha women with tiny babies. Across their broad hips were slung fat curved knives. The scabbards were polished with bear grease. The women had so much gold plugged in their noses they could hardly breathe. There were no men with them.

Kachins in huge hats and wearing slim black swords at their sides mingled with dumb ox-like Mongolians who made up the other caravan. Both carried salt and dried fish.

THE END OF INDIA

It was all reminiscent of a year ago when I stood at Landhi Khana, in the heart of the Himalayas, and looked down into India, Afghanistan, Russia and China. Even the same words had been spoken: "This is the end of India." Last year every manjack in the Khyber Pass had a rifle slung over his shoulder. This time every man and boy, except the Mongols, sported a sword. You have to pass these barrel-shaped tough guys on the left. That leaves the right arm free to mow you down if there's any monkey business.

We strolled out the China road into tribal territory. Kachin women with ebony black teeth scowled at us and yelped curses if we tried to photograph them. Most of them were flat-footed and filthy. They wore black pantaloons and black smocks hung about with little silvery bells. The men thought it a big joke when I tried to get pictures and instead of rushing to cut me down they grinned and pushed their women into camera range. The women either grinned sheepishly or snarled like snout-nosed Himalayan bears which yearly kill hundreds of them.

Ten to seventeen miles beyond this edge of the silences is a barbed wire fence; a couple of white-washed stones and some tin shacks. The edge of North China swept by frequent civil war and guarded, of all things, by Englishmen. Not a single Chinese guards China's Northern frontier. All Englishmen. Chinese, they explain, would collect customs duties all right. "Oh, sure, he'd get your money or your head. But no government would ever get a crack at it. That's his. Legitimate spoils of the road."

"WHERE MEN ARE MEN"

"Me for Tibet," I said. "How's chances of getting into Lhasa, the forbidden city of the crimson Lamas?" "Not a hope," the Scot said. "The rains will break any hour now and this country will be a hopeless bog. Nothing but crocodiles and snakes will have a chance to get through. Besides nobody's allowed through to Tibet. Those Englishmen would turn you back at the frontier. Hijackers and land pirates, brigands and thugs would tear you apart in a day. You'd be a pushover. This is unknown tribal territory. You're right in the heart of the bad lands."

I figured I'd hire a horse and at least enter Tibet, so we swung back along the ribbon of concrete. Down from the hills came boys leading dogs on fibre thongs. Dozens of fat but lifeless pooches for the market. Not for any fancier to put around his house as pal, plaything or guard, but as food. Dog, to the great unwashed of the Himalayan foothills, is ace high gastronomical nectar. Black dog rates better than yellow hound or fox terrier. The rougher the hair, the better they like him. A cocker spaniel for instance is a chef's home run with the bases full. Just thought I'd let you know in case you were bringing a mut over sometime.

And then, to get off the track again the expression "great unwashed" is no slice of imaginative fill-up but the genuine truth. Kachins, Marus, Yawwins and lots of other clans and tribes of these mountain fastness believe it sinful and degrading to wash, bathe, clean their teeth or comb their hair. It's never done, and you can imagine how I found this out? Well dunt eek, your nose knows.

Back in Bhamo we came to the joss house, a glory of Chinese architecture and hospitality. Symmetrical and poetical in line far beyond any feeble effort of mine to describe it, this home of scowling statues or bland Buddhas starts the Chinese pilgrim on his lonely way across the hills and deserts.

Any Chinaman going anywhere, anytime, can come to the joss house and bed down for a night or two. There is a stable for his shaggy little pony, a place under a great scowling idol for him to cook up his meagre meal of rice or brew his tea.

In the garden, hyacinths and roses bloom, birds sing, priests chant quiet prayers. If ever there was silent sanctuary for the straggler, here it is.

LONG-NAILED HERMIT

Out of the desert tonight came one hermit of the high hills. A man of mystery flitting by like a ghost on some spectral mission. He was the old style Chinese with long brittle flinger nails, a straggly beard and a braided pig-tail.

Concentrating on some mystical thought beyond the rest of us, he stripped off his rope shoes and sat contemplating the bland Buddha for hours while the click of mah jong cubes came from another room where traders, about to set out at dawn, gambled away the results of their Bhamo business. Every man in that game wore a short business-like dirk around his ample middle and, instead of amiable Chinese vacuity, a look of purpose and determination. Bad birds to get fresh with, these mid-Asiatic traders.

The Scot and I roamed down to the club. It was empty and deserted. Somebody offered me a fine-looking horse for eighteen dollars, complete with saddle for nineteen dollars and fifty cents.

We went from the club to a "chummery" where young fellows more or less permanently stationed in town, live together. A cute looking Burmese girl said, "Hello, how are you?" and vanished without an answer. She was mistress to one of the young men, for Burma is the land of easy virtue. Where such goings-on might be generally looked at with the high eyebrow and the cold shoulder, it's pretty much the usual thing high up where the cool winds blow.

We played bridge for awhile then started back toward the mudbank where I was living aboard the boat. "Let's walk," I suggested when one of those stuffy milk cart things drew up. "It's a beautiful night under the stars and I need exercise."

"Walk, you must be daft, man. Where's your searchlight? You'll step on a snake sure as guns. And that would be the end of you my lad, for here, where the cold winds sigh, the snakes are meaner than death."

We rattled and swayed from side to side over hideous soupy roads. At the tin shack from where the caravans start after each boat comes in a boy with white teeth that gleamed in the starlight wanted to sell two tiger cubs. Not small sleek Malayan tigers, not big heavy-boned royal Bengals, but long-haired sabre-toothed snarlers from the hills.

Seventy-five cents for the two. Six bits for a brace of tigers. Where's Frank Harris? He needs a brace of tigers for that plantation of his out in the horseshoe belt.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

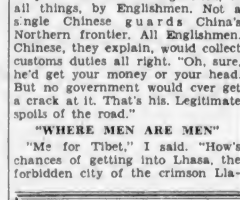
TACTICS AGAINST THE TAKEOUT DOUBLE

Many players at the bridge table, after partner has made an opening bid and an opponent has doubled for a takeout, are strongly inclined to remain quiet for one round of bidding, hoping, often against hope, that the opponents will get into difficulties. Sometimes a course such as this is justified and sometimes it is necessary, as the responding hand, after a sound opening bid followed by a sound takeout double, often is too weak to safely follow any other course. In other cases, however, passing after a double can do nothing but harm. For instance, good bidding tactics require that if partner has opened the bidding with a suit that can be supported, a jump raise should be made in order that the road for the opponents may be made difficult. It is equally true that if the hand contains a takeout that would be made if there were no takeout double, then the takeout should be made after the double unless the balance of the hand suggests the strong probability that any response made to the takeout double by the doubler's partner will result in severe penalties for the doubling side.

On the following hand failure to act aggressively after a takeout double brought disaster to one pair in a recent team-of-four match in which the contestants were among the world's best players.

North, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



In one room the bidding proceeded as follows:
(Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs).

North	East	South	West
1♡	Pass(1)	1♠	Pass
3♠	Pass	4♠	Pass
Pass	Dbl.(2)	Redbl.	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—East's hand appears too strong for such a pass in view of the fact that neither side is vulnerable.

2—This is not a sound double for penalties. Partner has been silent throughout and there is no assurance that East can take more than three tricks.

In the play West made the extremely bad lead of the heart knave. East, when he got the lead, was unwilling to lead diamonds, as he felt that this would establish the king in the dummy. As a result, South made not only his contract, but an overtrick as well.

In the other room the bidding followed a no less remarkable course. It was as follows:
(Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs).

North	East	South	West
1♡	Dbl.	Pass(1)	2◇(3)
Pass(3)	2NT(4)	Pass	3◇(5)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—South should bid one spade at this point. His hand contains one and a half honor-tricks and a fair five-card suit. Of course, his reason for passing is that he hopes that West will respond with spades, but this is not sufficient justification for his action.

2—West makes the obvious response.

3—Although North has a fairly strong hand, in view of the takeout double and South's passive course there is nothing further that he can well say. His heart suit is not rebiddable and a bid of two no trump, in view of the bidding, would be foolhardy.

4—East elects to take a chance on finding some kind of a spade stopper in his partner's hand. He thinks he may be able to make two no trump and hopes that his partner is strong enough to bid for game.

5—West, of course, signs off.

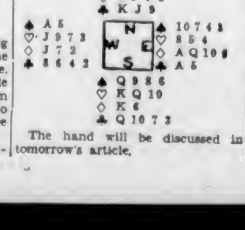
East and West made four diamonds in actual play, the heart in the declarer's hand being established for a discard before the club ace was driven out of the dummy.

The swing on this hand was over 1,000 points and contributed materially to the victory of the players seated North and South in room 1 and those seated East and West in room 2.

TOMORROW'S HAND

If East, as dealer, passes the hand below, what should South do, and why?

East, dealer.
East and West vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

FRANCE WANTS STABLE BASIS

Comte Jean de Suzannet Tells of Position Taken at Economic Conference

Valuable information relative to world financing was imparted to the members of the Rotary Club, yesterday, by Comte Jean de Suzannet when he addressed them on the subject of France's view of the world situation at the Economic Conference held in London.

Owing to the fact that the subject was of such a very wide character, the speaker confined himself to only three aspects of the situation. These were the raising of the price level, the credit organization and the stabilization of the currency.

While the sixty-six nations represented at the conference realized the importance of a restoration of confidence in trade, the creation of an atmosphere of international peace, and the doing away with mass unemployment, he said, it soon became evident at the gathering that there were unsurmountable difficulties to be faced that made it impossible to reach an agreement.

AGAINST INFLATION

While the French were favorable to the raising of the price level, they felt that this should only be attained by natural means and in line with supply and demand. If artificial methods like currency inflation were adopted, the situation would be more deceiving and more trouble would ensue.

With respect to the unemployment situation, the speaker declared the French view was that the present conditions were the direct result of uneconomic conditions during the war. Such a position could best be combatted by normal conditions being restored. It was not a normal course after the war to attempt to maintain high prices that had reached an abnormal stage in the matter of materials and which were being increasingly produced with the close of hostilities.

Statistics showed that in 1933, as compared with 1923, the world wheat available was increased twofold; cotton, over the same period, increased two and a half times; sugar, three and a half times, and coffee five and a half times. The trouble was not due to lack of consumption. There was an increased area under cultivation in the lines of commodities represented and methods of cultivation had improved.

The speaker pointed out that experience showed that the world's needs in the line of commodities did not increase proportionately with the increase in population.

CAUSE OF SLUMP

The slump began, said the speaker, in 1925 rather than in 1929. Overproduction stimulated by artificial causes intended as economic cures was responsible.

The French representatives were favorable to control as far as possible of commodities like wheat, cotton, wine, timber, wool, coal, copper and silver. Good credit was deemed essential. It was doubtful, said the Comte, whether manipulated credit such as cheap money could accomplish much. This was proved in 1931-32 when the United States Federal Bank initiated credit inflation. Price levels continued to slump and business became more stagnant.

Whenever credit was extended, the speaker stated, a debt was created. Central banks, he felt, could not control the acceleration of the movement of money nor affect the price level. The piling up of unsound debts would eventually bring about panic.

FAVORS GOLD BASIS

France was against a systematic currency inflation. It was strongly in favor of the re-establishment of gold as a currency basis. That country emphasizes the necessity of stable sterling and a stable dollar, whether they are on a high basis or a low one. Business could not be conducted on a stable basis when two important countries like Britain and the United States were on fluctuating basis.

There were a lot of fallacies accepted by the public with regard to economic matters, said the speaker. In the end it could be accepted that sound money promoted production, while unsound money only encouraged speculation. France and the other gold countries were doing their best to avoid a world catastrophe by abandonment of the gold standard. If no currency can be trusted, there would be world anarchy. France had had its experience of inflation and suffered from it. The speaker said he had had a bitter experience in this regard. France was wanting to save other countries from the woes that attended inflation.

A HALL OF RECORDS

Recommendation to the Provincial Government that a Hall of Records be created is a progressive suggestion. It is to be hoped that it will be adopted and that a suitable repository for important papers will be established without loss of time. British Columbia includes a vast territory. Administration of public affairs requires a multiplicity of administrative centres. These Government agencies are, with few exceptions, housed in wooden buildings and are mostly devoid of adequate vaults in which to keep records that are of vital importance to the people of the province. The loss of a single set of records might result in lengthy legal suits and endless confusion.

One instance will suffice to demonstrate the value of a permanent place of custody for records. Seventy years ago, Barkerville was the centre of gold mining. A townsite was laid out, homes and business blocks were constructed. Then came a fire that entirely destroyed the town. Later, in the process of placer mining, tailings from the sluice boxes overran the townsite, and the buildings that were reconstructed after the fire were elevated as the mounting debris from mining necessitated. The result was that all survey records and property boundaries were obliterated. Some years ago residents of Barkerville desired to have the deed for the church property executed. It required years of effort to determine whether or not it could be done, and then a special order-in-council had to be passed setting out property boundaries for the church lot. This could be done because the church was in a peculiarly isolated section of the town. Today, with gold mining once more centring on Barkerville, there is not a single existing record that can serve to determine the exact ownership of other lots in the community. The possibilities of endless lawsuits and perhaps public indemnity to occupants of buildings are causing officials much concern. Had there been, from the outset of our comparatively recent civilization, a Hall of Records, to which original documents could be sent for safe-keeping, such a condition would not exist.

It is to be hoped that in addition to establishing a Hall of Records the Government will set competent persons to work indexing all the reports made on various phases of public works and activities. These are most valuable. The staff of the Legislative Library and Public Archives is woefully handicapped by lack of assistance and money to carry on this most important work.

Governments change and invariably each change is followed by dismissals and rearrangement of civil servants. Incoming ministers, deputies and departmental heads are fully occupied in mastering the details of their offices and with the day by day problems that arise. As a result they have no time to pour over the reports of former years, and often, in ignorance of work that has been accomplished in the past, new expenditures are incurred to obtain information that is already buried in departmental files. The savings effected would more than compensate for the cost of having all departmental documents indexed and cross-indexed, so that they would be readily available for the service of the Government and public.

THE HOUSE OF MORGAN

Columns were written and much was made in the sensational press of the affairs of the house of J. P. Morgan and Co. when its operations were a subject of inquiry by the American Senate. The public was given a prejudiced view of the revelations. The impression was created by those scavenging for any missile to hurl at the banking business that the famous firm was defrauding the treasury of the United States. The emphasis laid on evidence torn from its context was an illustration of despicable journalistic methods. The facts, however, speak for themselves. No tarnish whatever attaches to the name or fame of J. P. Morgan and Company.

In the years 1930, 1931 and 1932 the partners of the Morgan firm paid no income tax. That was their crime in the eyes of a sensation-loving public. From 1917 to 1929 the same partners paid more than $51,000,000, a very large share being due upon net capital gains, which, under the statute, they were obliged to add to their income for tax purposes. In the years of depression, 1930, 1931 and 1932, there were capital losses. These, which the law permitted the firm to deduct, wiped out all income. Mr. J. P. Morgan pointed out to the Senate committee that "income taxes are after all payable upon income and not upon deficits." In other words, in every respect the house of Morgan was keeping within the law. It was the same in its relationships with its personal clients. It made loans to occupants of public office. That was a purely business transaction. Only crude minds imagine that a loan contracted by a public man establishes a relation between him and a banking house inimical to the public interest. That is a grotesque suspicion. In commenting on the Senate inquiry into the operations of private banking houses The London Times says:

"There are changes to come in the American banking system, and it is already certain that the position of the private banker will be substantially altered. His business, as Mr. Morgan said to the Senate committee, has on the whole been conservatively conducted over a period beginning a couple of hundred years before corporate banking began. In London, Paris, Vienna, Hamburg, Amsterdam and New York (he said) private bankers have for generations made important contributions to the economic development of the world, to the development of business enterprise and sound finance. There is no doubt of it, and there is no doubt that the house of Morgan has a record as honorable and as constructive as any in the long roll. It is a thousand pities that the proclamation of this truth should be unpopular in the United States today, and it is profoundly to be hoped the new system, whatever it may be, will not too severely restrict the firm's opportunity of public service. In the homely American phrase, it would be foolish to throw away the baby with the bath-water."

GRAND JURIES

Professor W. S. Holdsworth of All Souls College, Oxford, is probably the greatest authority on constitutional law in Britain. He opposes the abolition of the grand jury system which is now the subject of legislation. The grand jury is a safeguard for the liberties of the subject, and these liberties, in the opinion of Professor Holdsworth need safeguards more today than they did in the time of the Stuarts. Bureaucratic government dislikes safeguards in this respect. The abolition of the grand jury system is being sought in Britain on the ground of economy of time and money in the conduct of criminal trials. That argument, Professor Holdsworth says, can have no application to the assize grand jury, "which is important both as a part of the procedure of a criminal trial and as a piece of constitutional machinery which has in the past done good service in the cause of liberty and may well do good service again. Then Professor Holdsworth says:

"Many times in our constitutional history the preservations of institutions which seemed to have lost their usefulness has been of the greatest service to the cause of constitutional government. It was the preservation, mainly through Coke's efforts, of medieval elements in the constitution of the seventeenth century which enabled England in the eighteenth century to stand out, to use Dicey's words, as 'the one great free state where arbitrary government was unknown and individual freedom of speech and action was protected by the rule of fixed law.' We cannot in these days afford to lose one of our few remaining securities for freedom and speech and action."

The remarks of Professor Holdsworth are sustained by Mr. Justice Avory, who in a recent charge to the grand jury at the Sussex Assizes, said: "There seems to be in some quarters a complete indifference to some of the landmarks of our constitution which were designed to secure the liberty of the subject and the independence of the administration of justice upon which, mainly, the liberty of the subject depends."

NO ACREAGE RESTRICTION

It now seems certain that the World Economic Conference will arrive at no decision for international restriction of wheat acreage. It is an excellent thing that it has failed in this respect and every credit is due to Australia for having opposed the movement from the beginning. It is true that Canada was officially in favor of restriction. It is equally true, however, that the farmers as a whole had not been consulted. The probability is that they would have opposed the plan. They would have if The Winnipeg Free Press represents their opinions. That newspaper says such restriction would be a formal validation by Canada of the disastrous doctrine that the way to revive the world wheat trade, already nearly strangled by restrictions, is to apply more restrictions. If the plan had been been approved The Free Press says:

"The economic loss occasioned by the restrictions now in force will be intensified. For there is not yet a gleam of promise that the importing countries intend to drop the nationalistic policy of self-sufficiency in food supplies. Western Canada must fight this policy, or, in Mr. Bennet's words, perish in the attempt."

SOCIALIST AMATEURS REBUKED

But, as a rule, clergymen distinctly are not specialists in matters economic and in the field of world politics. They haven't time to be if they attend to their own business; and they think and speak about those topics as common men and amateurs. When they undertake to set themselves up as authorities they are apt to become blind leaders of the blind. And incidentally they attempt to do more than either the Founder of their religion or the Apostle to the Gentiles undertook to do. The moment they commence to turn their attention to other matters they necessarily give less thought and consideration to their main calling in life; and become less efficient as religious shepherds than they were when they were not distracted by outside activities.—Brandon Sun.

Those who in quarrels interpose
Must often wipe a bloody nose.
And when a lady's in the case,
You know all other things give place.

Pray, goody, please to moderate the rancor of your tongue;
Why flash those sparks of fury from your eyes?
Remember, when the judgment's weak the prejudice is strong.
—O'Hara.

Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, M.P., P.C., etc., and Miss Agnes Macphail, M.P., are in a position similar to that of the old couple of the once well-known verse. Like Betsy and I, they "are out." The Liberal leader, now on a tour of the West, has been saying some unpleasant things about Miss Macphail and the new political party in which she has found the companionship which was not to be found in the existing disorganized social conditions. In turn Miss Macphail has been saying some sarcastic things about Mr. King and the political party of which he is at present the titular leader.

We infer from these interesting recriminations that the relations between the two eminent politicians are somewhat strained—and "unfortunately those strained relations cannot be adjusted as the difficulty between Betsy and her spouse were mended—by an application for divorce. Those who take an interest in the political history of Canada will remember that there was a time when the leader of the Liberal Party and the member of the C.C.F. political party (which says it is not a political party) were closely associated in the conduct of public affairs—so intimately associated indeed that for a whole parliamentary term the King Government was kept in power through the vote and influence of the active and enterprising member for Southeast Grey, Ont.

That relationship was very pleasant and profitable—probably because of the natural law that the strong must dominate the weak. It was during the term of that pleasant and profitable relationship that Miss Macphail made the historical declaration that she knew how to handle the then Premier; that when she wanted anything from the Government she took Mr. King by the scruff of the neck (she did not mention another convenient hold) and shook what she wanted out of him. In other words, that she held the Premier in the hollow of her soft but sinewy hand.

Family discords never make pleasant reading or profitable subjects for contemplation. So we remember suggesting at the time of the unfortunate domestic political scandal that a complete reunion might be effected if the leader of the Liberal Party were to reconsider his solitary state and the corresponding state of the gifted spinster and make matrimonial proposals. The deal was never consummated and the greatest social event of any season was never to thrill the heart of Ottawa society, probably because our suggestions were clumsically preferred. A golden opportunity was lost, and two of the most prominent personages of Canada (at least from a political point of view) were not destined to exchange vows under orange blossoms "and live happily ever after." The social paths as well as the political paths diverged, and we fear the present paths instead leading to the never, never land of complete earthly felicity, will lead to the undiscovered country known as nowhere. And the melancholy thing is that the principals in what might have been great events are not likely to leave any heirs and successors.

There is a story on what is regarded as a permanent record about a certain Jacob having by stratagem cheated his brother out of the family inheritance as well as out of the parental blessing. It was as a consequence of that cunning manoeuvre that Jacob was called the supplanter. The new strain in the relations between Mr. King and Miss Macphail has no doubt been caused by a fear that the C.C.F. Party has designs upon the position of the Liberal Party—that instead of the C.C.F. Party continuing to be content with the status of a minor political party, it aims at becoming a major political party by supplanting the Liberal Party. That evidently is the chief thought simmering in the mind of the Liberal leader at the present time and the contingency which Mr. King dreads. That is why the Rt. Hon. the Leader of the Opposition during his tour has reiterated that old and frayed platitude that the Liberal Party is the People's Party, and hence suggests that all other parties must be interlopers or imposters, like the fabled wolves in sheeps' clothing. The pending fight will not be what Robert Louis Stevenson called "a bonnie fecht," but it will be bitter, fierce and interesting to members of another party. The C.C.F. Party frankly admits that its principles are Socialistic, but that party's strength lies solely in the West, and the Liberal leader knows that if his party loses the West it loses all. That is why the relations between the old party and the new party are so bitter and why the air-guns of the Liberal leader are aimed chiefly at the ramparts or the outposts of the C.C.F.

THE AGE OF MAN

Sir,—Quite recently we read two books on Bible and science, the one by E. R. Hooper, B.A., M.D., of Toronto, the other by A. I. Brown, M.D., C.M., of Edinburgh, the latter now lecturing on that subject in this city in the Central Baptist Church. They point out how that up to the present the age of the earth has never been determined. Lord Kelvin, Professor Thompson, Darwin, Fisher, in their guesses vary from 7,200,000,000 years down to 1,000,000 years—an appreciable difference. God's Word dismisses the date question with a laconic "In the beginning (whenever that might have been) God created the heaven and the earth."

The age of man, however, is not quite so "religiously" kept from our curiosity, for with the numerous data from Adam down to the birth of the Saviour we arrive at 4,000 years approximately and up to the present time about 6,000 years. But here again some scientists are at variance not only with the Bible but also with each other. Henri Fairfield Osborn, Draper, Gilbert of the U.S.A. Survey, and Sir J. W. Dawson give the age of man as from 500,000 years down to 7,000 years; whereas William A. Williams, ex-president of Franklin College, claims that the approximate period of 6,000 years is unquestionably right. He goes to prove his findings in a remarkable way, basing them on the 1922 Berlin census report of the world's population, which was then approximately 1,804,000,000. He claims that the human race must have doubled itself 30.75 times to arrive at this number, or two (Noah and his wife) raised to the 30.75th power, which gives us our present population.

According to Hales' chronology based on the Septuagent text, 5,177 years elapsed since Noah, and from Adam to Noah 1,106 years (see Genesis v, 3-28). Dividing the present day population by 30.75 we obtain an average lifetime of about 168 years, which is quite reasonable considering man used to live much longer in the earlier days. In like manner Hales arrives at the conclusion that the 15,000,000 Jews of 1922 must have doubled 23.8 times since Abraham, 3,850 years ago, giving them an average length of life of 161 years approximately, very much the same as that of the whole race.

He points out that had the race doubled, say, for even only 10,000 years instead of 500,000 years, as H. F. Osborn suggests, the present population would have been 2,000,000,000 times greater than it is, which is an impossibility! Q.E.D.

Truly our God is a great God of wonders; Who doeth great things past finding out, and wonders without number! O, the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are His judgments, and His ways past finding out!

L. J. EEKMAN.

COSMIC FORCE PUSHES EARTH

Occasional Fillip to Keep Globe Spinning May Cause Earthquakes

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP).—An unidentified "cosmic force" out in space that every so often gives the earth a "push" to keep it spinning and is one cause of earthquakes and mountain building, was described today to the International Geological Congress.

This cosmic force may be a planet or some other heavenly body that passes near the earth at intervals, said Dr. Arnold Heim, noted Swiss geologist.

This, he believes, has resulted in changing positions of the North and South Poles during the distant past, a westward drift of the continents and changes in speed of the earth's rotation.

The cosmic force must exist, he explained, because otherwise the surface of the earth should be much smoother and less broken by mountains and other irregularities. He added that these could not have been produced entirely by cooling and shrinking of the earth's crust, heat and energy of rotation that the earth has inherited from its parent, the sun, and tides caused by the influence of the sun and moon.

"Our earth is not a slowly dying celestial body, only consuming what is left from the engetical gift of the sun," Dr. Heim said. "It must have received fresh cosmic impulses which, combined with the inherited energy are thought to have caused the crustal movements."

This change in speed of spin, he said, might result in slipping of the earth's outer shell around its interior and drifting of the continents over the face of the globe.

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock at any tide, add 16.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Songhees drydock add 39 feet to the height of high water as above given.

CELLAR TANKS ARE PERMITTED

Public Safety Is Aim of New British Columbia Oil Burner Regulations

New provincial regulations affecting oil burning apparatus are based on the requirements of underwriters, and are designed to promote greater safety in the handling of fuel oil in domestic heating plants, Attorney-General R. H. Pooley, K.C., stated yesterday, in explanation of the new code introduced by the British Columbia Government this week.

Storage of a limited amount of oil will be permitted in basement tanks, provided these are encased in concrete. In connection with demonstrations of oil burners and oil-burning apparatus at fairs and elsewhere, the approval of the British Columbia fire marshal must be secured as to the premises in which such demonstrations are to be publicly made.

As already announced, the new regulations give provincial authorities the right to demand a test of oil-burning apparatus by the laboratories of the Canadian National Research Council before sale or use of such equipment.

EFFECTIVE AUGUST 1

The regulations go into effect on August 1. They provide for approval by the fire marshal of all types of oil burners offered for sale. A Canadian laboratory test may be demanded by the marshal at his discretion. Installation permits will be necessary. Use of crank-case oil is barred. Detailed regulations are made for storage tanks, which, with few exceptions, must be below ground and protected. Piping, valves, guages, pumps and other devices used with oil burners are also to be regulated.

Use of a gravity-fed oil system is barred in any part of a structure used for an apartment house, hotel, school, hospital, jail or other place of detention, theatre, place of public assembly, department store, or in any building over navigable water (with an exception permitting oil demonstrations in stores under safeguards).

Tanks for domestic oil burners may have a capacity up to fifty-five gallons. Range oil burners must be approved by the National Research Council of Canada and be so labeled. Gravity tanks supplying oil ranges must not exceed six gallons. Domestic oil burners must be connected with chimneys.

Technical requirements, in addition, run to several pages in the current issue of the British Columbia Gazette. They can best be summarized by stating that the approval of the fire marshal is necessary both in respect to the equipment and its installation after August 1.

PORTLAND IS TO HAVE PIPE BAND

Canadian Legion Unit From South to Bring Musicians Here for Command Convention

The Portland delegation to the Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion's convention which opens here on Thursday next, will bring along a sixteen-ptece pipe band to enliven the proceedings.

With the band will be at least seventy-five delegates, who will join in the deliberations at the conference. From Bellingham, Seattle and Spokane there will be other delegations and the representation from the American units should be well over 200.

Tacoma will send a drill team of women who will give a demonstration of their abilities outside the Royal Victoria Theatre, at 5:15 in the afternoon of August 4. This will be one of the features of the convention.

Resolutions continue to come into the convention headquarters, and there is every reason to suppose that the subjects to be discussed on the floor of the convention will be invaluable to ex-service men here and throughout the province.

FACES CHARGE THAT COLLECTIONS WERE NOT DULY RETURNED

Charged with having collected $540 in insurance premiums for the firm of Robert Grubb & Company between May 1 and July 22 of this year and failed to turn the amount in to the company, P. J. Howard appeared in the City Police Court yesterday morning.

The case was adjourned without any plea being taken, application to be allowed out on bail being requested. It was represented that the accused had been in ill-health and was at the time of his arrest in a nursing home. It was suggested that he should not be confined in jail in his present condition and the obtaining of bail should be facilitated.

The acting police magistrate, C. J. Prior, fixed bail at $1,000 in two sureties.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Corner Stone Laid—Yesterday afternoon the ceremony of laying the corner stone of the new Protestant Orphans' Home, to be erected at the corner of Blanshard and Rae Streets, was conducted by the Masonic Fraternity of Victoria. The building, of which the foundations are already laid, will be thirty-eight feet by forty-eight feet, built of wood, two stories high. Many prominent business men of the city took part in the ceremonies, which were witnessed by a large audience of Victorians.

Blue Ribbon Club—Another of the ever-popular Blue Ribbon Club meetings was held last night in Omineca Hall, with a very large attendance of members and non-members. Mr. Rudge, a recent convart, reported that he felt the same as ever about the movement, and that he always intended to stick by the pledge.

Minister Inspects City—Sir Alexander Campbell, distinguished member of the Dominion Cabinet, had an interview with the Executive yesterday respecting the matters at variance with the Province and Canada. Another interview will take place tomorrow. Sir Alexander visited H.M.S. Swiftsure and other points of interest during the day.

Road Survey Mooted—A meeting of settlers on the West Saanich Road was held Friday evening, and it was resolved to ask the Government to survey the line of road to avoid the hills between Sluggett and Stevens.

SOLEMN RITES END RETREAT

Sisters of St. Ann Comemorate Festival of Patron Saint

Concluding their annual eight-day retreat and celebrating the festival of their patron saint, St. Ann, the Sisters of the Order took part in solemn religious ceremonies at the Convent on Wednesday.

The special features of the celebration took place in the beautiful Convent chapel, which was the original St. Andrew's Cathedral of Victoria. These were fourfold. Miss Olive Lutz, of Port Angeles, took the habit, with white veil, of a novice of the order, receiving the name of Sister Mary Olive Ann; Sister Mary Augustine, nee Jessica Bell, of Vancouver, and Sister Mary Annetta, nee Edna Sutton, took their first vows, the latter Sister's parents formerly having lived in British Columbia, although now resident in California; eight Sisters, after three years' probation, took their life vows, viz., Sister Mary Artemia (assistant teacher in the commercial class at St. Ann's for the past three years), Sister Mary Clarissa (also on the Academy staff), Sister Mary Rosalita (New Westminster), Sister Mary Edmunds (Shaughnessy), Sister Mary Florence (Port Angeles), Sister Mary Melania (Kitsilano), Sister Mary Francella (New Westminster), and Sister Mary Theodric (Kuper Island).

RENEWAL OF VOWS

The fourth and perhaps most important incident in the celebration was the renewal by Sister Mary of the Infant Jesus of the vows which she took sixty years ago. Born in Oswego, New York State, Sister Mary Infant Jesus has had fifty-five years' service with the Order of St. Ann in British Columbia and is still actively engaged in her duties. She was the recipient of numerous congratulatory messages during the day.

Bishop Gerald Murray received the vows of all the Sisters. Father Keenan, S.J., of Vancouver, celebrated Mass, and Father Cunningham, C.S.S.R., also of Vancouver, preached the sermon. The Convent choir, during the services, sang the Mass and the chorale, "Quid Retribuamus."

WILL CONFER ON JOINING MAINS

City and Oak Bay Councils Will Hold Meeting to Consider Details of Matter

A little delay in the proceedings connected with the coupling up of the Oak Bay water system with the city extension by way of Leighton Road is occurring, while the two councils hold a conference with respect to the details. The request has come from the City Council to the Oak Bay body, asking for the conference to discuss some of the matters connected with it.

At the meeting of the Oak Bay Council last evening, it was decided on motion of Councillor A. D. Crease, chairman of the finance committee, that all further action connected with the carrying out of the plans should be suspended pending the conference.

Later the reeve was authorized to arrange for the conference and to advise as many members of the Oak Bay council as could attend to be present. It will be urged upon the City Council that the meeting take place soon as the Oak Bay body is anxious to lose as little time as possible in getting started with the work.

OIL ROYALTIES NOT TAXABLE

Privy Council Holds Dominion May Not Assess Money Under Agreement

LONDON, July 27 (CP).—The judicial committee of the Privy Council today dismissed the appeal of the Canadian Minister of National Revenue in a case involving the question whether money received as royalties under an oil production agreement was liable to income tax.

The case, coming from the Supreme Court of Canada, involved the appeal of the Spooner Oils Limited, of Calgary, against the action of the Turner Valley Gas Conservation Board in limiting the company's production.

RULING UPHELD

The company originally failed in the Alberta courts in its efforts to prove the Turner Valley Gas Conservation Act ultra vires the Province of Alberta and that the board had not the legal right to reduce the company's gas production.

Following this the company argued the royalties accruing from the reduced production were not liable to income tax, and the Supreme Court of Canada upheld this view.

MAYOR TO OPEN DISPLAY TODAY

Tenth Annual Summer Show of Horticultural Society Being Held at Willows

The Victoria Horticultural Society is holding its tenth annual Summer Show in the Main Building at the Exhibition Grounds today and tomorrow. Doors will be open at 2:30 p.m., with Mayor Leeming, honorary president of the society, officially opening the exhibition at 3 o'clock.

The secretary reports most of the 100 classes well filled, with a particularly heavy entry for the display and various collections. The class for decorated table again proves a very popular one, the awards to be given by popular vote. Keen competition is to be seen for the Nicholson Trophy, which is awarded to the best exhibit in the floral section, amateurs only.

The Women's Auxiliary will serve teas, luncheons, etc., both days of the show, also the young pupils of Miss Florence Clough will give programmes of dancing at various times during the exhibition.

The floral exhibit will be judged by George Robinson and J. W. Darling, while E. W. White and A. Green will place the awards in the fruit and vegetable sections.

The secretary of the Victoria Horticultural Society asks that members who have not disposed of all their tickets for the flower show, should turn in as soon as possible during the show all unsold tickets.

Safe at Home!

—He Has a Telephone

IN everyday life, as in baseball, it's important to be "safe at home."

There are lots of people whose homes have never been entered by burglars, or threatened by fire, or who have never had an accident or illness that required a hurry-up call for the doctor. But they never know when any of these things might happen.

A telephone in the house gives a sense of security, because, when danger threatens, a telephone call is the quickest way to bring help.

HEAT DAMAGES PRAIRIE CROPS

Conditions More Favorable in East—B.C. Crops of Good Quality

MONTREAL, July 27 (CP).—Further deterioration in all crops in the Prairie Provinces has taken place during the past week, owing to hot weather and lack of moisture, says the weekly crop report issued today by the Bank of Montreal.

Poor crops, with consequent feed shortage, are indicated over a large part of the southern and central areas of the three provinces, according to telegraphic reports received by the bank from its branch managers.

Conditions in northern areas are more favorable, however. Damage from grasshoppers continues over large areas of Saskatchewan and Manitoba, while frosts have occurred in Alberta. The Prairie crop of all grains will be considerably below average, the report proceeds.

In Quebec, weather conditions have been favorable and crops generally have advanced satisfactorily, but rain is now needed in most sections.

In Ontario, while there have been no general rains for some weeks, and as a result estimated yields are reduced, recent heavy showers in some districts have been beneficial. In the Maritime Provinces, crops generally are making good progress, the report says.

In British Columbia, continued warm, bright weather is rapidly ripening crops, which generally are of good quality.

TRADE REMEDY NOT LIMITATION

Agricultural Authority at Regina Opposed to Restricting Production

REGINA, July 27 (CP).—Cure of agricultural ills lies not in restriction of production but in oiling the wheels of trade and exchange, declared Sir A. Daniel Hall, noted British agriculturist and representative of the International Institute, Rome, in addressing the World's Grain Conference here today.

Necessity of maintaining uniform quality was emphasized by Sir Daniel. Western Canada's No. 2 Northern wheat is in bad repute with British millers because the millers are suspicious it does not always contain the same quantity of the garnet strain.

"Producers and sellers should do nothing to weaken the confidence of millers," he said. "The genuineness of the article must be maintained. And the same thing must be said of any slack interpretation of grading rules."

PROBLEMS STUDIED

Sweeping through numerous problems of production and distribution, delegates to the conference continued their session discussing the European corn borer, characteristics of various strains of wheat, field experiments and destruction of pale Western cut-worms as well as elimination of grain disease.

The per capita production of grain in Russia, said a paper by V. P. Timoshenko, University of Michigan, read by Dr. L. H. Newman, Ottawa, was much smaller than prior to the Great War. Referring to the exports of Russian wheat, Mr. Timoshenko said this was at the expense of domestic consumption. In some districts there was no grain for seed or food.

RESERVES USED

E. J. Stirniman, Brooklyn, Iowa, for two years consulting agricultural engineer to the Soviet Government, endorsed Mr. Timoshenko's statements, adding that while everyone heard of Russian wheat exports, no one could say what the country's imports totaled. The grain stored in previous years by farmers had been entirely wiped out.

WEATHER MAN PUTS PROPHETS IN PLACE

REGINA, July 27 (CP).—Long-range wizards were dealt a body blow by J. Patterson, of the Canadian Meteorological Service, Toronto, at the gathering of the weatherman's section of the world conference at the Legislative Buildings Wednesday.

"We cannot know definitely beyond two days what weather is ahead," declared Weatherman Patterson.

to 1918," he went on. "We shall suggest that the magnificent spirit of loyalty and of service and sacrifice for King, country and Empire ought not to be forgotten."

FRIENDLY INVASION

The object of the "friendly invasion" would be to impress on the people of Great Britain the virtues of purchasing from Canadian sources those goods they need from abroad and which Canada can supply, said Major Roper.

Under Sir Arthur Currie's leadership the trade ambassadors would appeal to the people in the name of those thousands of Canadian dead in France and Belgium and of other thousands mutilated in the Great War to rally to a new Empire crusade, declared Major Roper.

"The point we shall endeavor to drive home," he said, "is the fact that in so far as many of our men are concerned the war is not over yet, and they are suffering even now from the terrible curse of unemployment in the land which they so faithfully served and, without a shadow of doubt, saved.

"What these men require and what they have a right to is to have work so that by their own industry they may carry on as they did before the war.

"But the duty is not ours alone. It lies fairly and squarely on the shoulders of every citizen of our Great Empire."

NEXT YEAR

MONTREAL, July 27 (CP).—Some time next year is the probable date of the proposed goodwill expedition of former members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force to the United Kingdom, Sir Arthur Currie indicated tonight.

In London today, Major John S. Roper, president of the Canadian Legion, outlined the proposal as a move in the promotion of Empire trade, and mentioned Sir Arthur Currie, war-time commander of the Canadian Corps, and now principal of McGill University, as head of the Canadian party.

Reeve Crouch Wires Federal Minister Urging Announcement of Relief Pact

Reeve William Crouch, president of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, telegraphed to Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor at Ottawa, asking for the Federal Government to definitely declare its policy in connection with the administration of direct relief, it was announced at last night's meeting of the Saanich council.

It was pointed out to the minister that any deviation from the present basis of relief, which will expire July 31, would face many municipalities with financial disaster. Reeve Crouch, in a circular letter to all municipalities, has informed members of the union in respect to his actions.

"NEW DEAL" EXPECTED

Reeve Crouch informed the council that he was in receipt of a telegram from Ottawa, which unofficially declared that a new agreement would be forwarded to the Provincial Government within a few days and to municipalities during the next two or three weeks.

The action taken by the reeve was actuated by the outcome of a conference with Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance for British Columbia, on Tuesday. Reeve Crouch said he could receive no assurance from the Provincial Government that the one-third basis of sharing relief costs would be continued. The reeve was informed that the Provincial Government was awaiting word from Ottawa as to the terms of the new relief agreement. The Saanich council unanimously endorsed the reeve's action.

Provinces Worried By Court Ruling On Death Duties

Alberta Act Upset by Privy Council May Have Far-Reaching Effects—Government Here Awaits Full Text of Judgment

SHORT of seeing the terms of the reference and the written judgment, Attorney-General R. H. Pooley, K.C., was not prepared, last evening, to say what effect the recent decision of the Privy Council in the Alberta succession duty case would have on British Columbia practice. From a cursory glance at the reported findings, Mr. Pooley was of the opinion that the effect here may be slight.

"It would appear," he stated, "that the decisions have not upset the power of the provinces by raising taxes by succession duties; but have held that some of the provisions of the Alberta law are ultra vires. There is a good deal of difference between the succession duty laws of British Columbia and Alberta, and there is no indication yet that British Columbia will be affected. We must, of course, wait for the detailed finding before a reasonable opinion may be formed."

URGED UNIFORMITY

Of Attorneys-General in Western Canada, Mr. Pooley was in the position of one who could have said: "I told you so"; but he refrained from making such comment. Two and a half years ago he took to a conference of the four Western Provinces a detailed brief on direct and indirect taxation, prefacing his remarks at that time with the assertion that uniform laws would be necessary for all provinces if they were to avoid certain pitfalls as have since been encountered. The Pooley brief was received with acclaim, but resultant action was tardy.

There is reason to believe that British Columbia overhauled many of its statutes at the same time, providing against some contingencies which have since developed. British Columbia interest in the Alberta case is genuine, and the findings will be followed up in due course.

IMPORTANT RULING

LONDON, July 27 (CP).—Ruling portions of the old Alberta Succession Duties Act were ultra vires, the Privy Council today dismissed Alberta Government's appeal from a decision of the Alberta Court of Appeal. The judgment means the Alberta Government loses duties of $60,000 it sought to levy on the estate of the late I. K. Kerr.

The present Alberta act is not affected by the ruling, for the sections found invalid by the Privy Council today were revised in a substitute act passed in Alberta Legislature a year ago. These sections provided for imposition of succession duties on property outside Alberta and also made the executors of estates directly liable for duties, instead of the beneficiaries, their lordships finding this to be indirect taxation.

TWO POINTS

The case arose from the Government's claim on the estate of the late I. K. Kerr, half of which was outside Alberta. Cross-appeal of the executors was allowed, the executors maintaining the Government could not legally collect succession duties on property outside the province, and that levies on property within the province were indirect taxation, owing to the executors being liable.

The new act levies the tax on the property itself, and does not make the executors personally liable. It is believed the Kerr estate claim is the only one involved under the old act.

ONTARIO ANXIOUS

TORONTO, July 27 (CP).—W. B. Common, acting deputy attorney-general, told The Canadian Press today he believed decision of the judicial committee of the Privy Council, at London, ruling succession duties on personal property illegal in Alberta, would have a widespread effect in Ontario.

Whether the decision of the Privy Council would tend to invalidate Ontario's succession duties law, Mr. Common was not prepared to say.

PICK TEAMS FOR SHOOT

City Police Will Compete With Los Angeles, Seattle and Vancouver

Four city police teams have been picked to compete with teams from Los Angeles, Seattle, Vancouver, Oak Bay and Saanich in the annual city police revolver shoot, to be held at the Esquimalt range next Wednesday.

This year's meet will attract more competitors than in past years, and many high scores are looked for, as city officers and district police have been practising consistently for the event, which has several open competitions.

THE TEAMS

The five-man revolver teams picked by the city force are as follows: First team, Detectives Walter Calwell, William Stark, Jack Rogers, Harvey Bamford and Henry Jarvis; second team, Constables Louis Callan, N. G. Griffiths, Maurice Wilkinson, Roy Woolsey and Arthur Phipps; third team, Constables James Strong, Alex. Nichol, Claude Belcher, Harry Mercer and Sgt. John Ireland; fourth team, Constables Douglas Bone, Stephen Dunnell, John Howe, Samuel McKenzie and Policewoman Miss Margaret Walker.

SPECIAL EVENTS

Special events have been arranged for the officers that will be on relief during the day of the meet, and consequently will be unable to attend. These competitions will be held on Thursday evening at the Esquimalt range at 6:15 o'clock, and they will include six rounds at twenty yards, in six minutes, for all members of the department who have not previously won a prize. The other event will be for the sergeants. Four prizes will be awarded for each event.

The shoot on Wednesday will commence at 9 a.m. and continue throughout the day. In the evening a social and dance will be held, and Mrs. David Leeming, Mayoress, will present the prizes to the various winners.

MRS. HELEN MOODY TO HEAD AMERICAN WOMEN'S NET TEAM

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP).—For the second time in her glamorous international tennis career, Helen Wills Moody today was selected to lead the United States Wightman Cup team against the United Kingdom at Forest Hills, August 4-5.

Mrs. Moody will lead a young team into action, only Helen Jacobs and Sarah Palfrey, of the six others selected, ever having played in the international team matches. The newcomers are Josephine Cruickshank, Carolin Babcock, Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn and Alice Marble.

A Western store ran the following advertisement:

"Apples, oranges, imported nuts. Come early and avoid the rush. The early bird gets the worm."

TILLICUMS DEFEAT MONARCHS, 10-4, IN JUNIOR BASEBALL

Tillicums defeated Monarchs, in a Junior League baseball match, last night, at Beacon Hill Park, 10-4. A dog, who apparently likes cowhide, ran away with the Tillicums' catcher's mitt just before the game, and anyone finding the mitt is asked to get in touch with Ray Parfitt.

The draw for the opening games of the knockout series was announced as follows:

August 8—Monarchs vs. Rock Bay.

August 13—Fernwood vs. Saanich.

Tillicums drew a bye.

MACKENZIE KING KISSING BABIES

But Becomes Alarmed When Female Baseball Players Arrive in Mass Formation

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., July 27 (CP).—The time-honored custom of kissing babies on political platforms may produce complications unless care is exercised.

Pretty little Joyce Schnorr shyly proffered a bouquet to Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King before the Liberal leader spoke at Ridge, not far from here.

"Does anything go with this?" smilingly asked Mr. King as he stopped and kissed her.

Later, he expressed his thanks for the presentation and remarked the pleasure he had derived from what followed, made him wish more donations of a similar nature might be made perhaps by some of the ladies.

But when he turned and found comely members of the Prince Albert ladies' softball team waiting to thank him for a donation, which he had made to the club, Mr. King looked startled while the crowd burst into a shout of laughter.

And then he shook hands with the ladies.

LaFarge, traffic manager of the Puget Sound Navigation Company, came here from Seattle yesterday to complete arrangements for the operation of the new ferryboat Quilcene on the Sidney-Anacortes ferry route. Gordon, in charge of Federal relief policies at Ottawa, that a new agreement will be drawn between the Dominion and British Columbia in respect to direct relief after the end of the current month. Mr. Dennies explained the British Columbia Government hopes to have definite details of the new arrangements in a few days. Meanwhile it is being assumed that relief in some form will be continued.

MAY EXPORT U.S. GOLD ORE

Government Ruling Permits Shipment Abroad of Concentrates

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP).—Relaxing slightly the stringent regulations against exporting gold from the United States, the Treasury decided today that gold ore and gold concentrates could be sent abroad.

Earlier, Attorney-General Cummings told newspaper men that gold hoarders who refused to return their metal to the Government in response to a presidential order would be prosecuted within three weeks.

SHIP UNREFINED

In answering questions from gold producers, the Treasury agreed to the relaxation but held that smelted and imperfectly refined gold could not be shipped abroad without violating the President's embargo order.

In an opinion submitted to the Treasury, Attorney-General Cummings defined as gold the metal which has been smelted or imperfectly refined. Gold concentrate is the result of crushing and washing gold ore.

He is leaving Friday at 7 a.m. with Captain Pat Reid, Imperial Oil, Limited, for Regina, Winnipeg, and Toronto. Mattern will do the flying. He expects a plane to be at Toronto and to fly solo to New York.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

By
KATHLEEN NORRIS

Love meant as much to Norah Oliver as it does to any woman. She was young and pretty but the man she loved had forgotten her. She was out of a job. Her mother was dying for lack of proper care. A father and his little boy were having a discussion on legal matters. "What is a retaining fee?" asked the little boy. His father replied: "A retaining fee is a fee paid to a lawyer before he will undertake to do any work for a client." "Oh!" replied the little boy, "like putting a shilling in a meter before you get any gas"

C.G.I.T. Attending Camp Have Wonderful Holiday

"Tribal Custom," Accepted by Girls at Maple Lawn, Sooke, Causes Much Fun — Leaders Are Popular

Ten days of happiness amid God's out-of-doors, in all its beauty and perfect weather, was the experience of eighty-one girls from Victoria and district, when they camped at Maple Lawn C.G.I.T. Camp, Sooke, recently. This 1933 camp was the largest for many years, and in the opinion of the girls, the finest yet held by the Victoria and District Girls' Leaders' Council.

These Canadian-Girls-in-Training lived with their leaders in joyous harmony in the open air by day and under canvas at night, with the glow of the moon and the starry sky above.

The tribal custom was used this year, when the girls were divided according to age, into eight tribes, choosing Indian names, songs, colors and yells. Each tribe was in charge of a competent leader, who assumed general guidance of her group, and led them in their Bible study discussion hour every morning.

The girls of senior age were under the able leadership of Mrs. M. Sullivan, Misses Minnie Beveridge, Winnie Urquhart and Norma Halliday. Those of intermediate age were well led by Mrs. R. Plumb, Misses Rhoda Craig, Carrie Whyte and Ethel Clarke.

ELECTED "CHIEF CAMPER"

Nellie Cameron was elected "Chief Camper," and was assisted by Barbara Daniels, 1932 Chief Camper.

Mrs. W. P. Freeman, who directed the camp, was the "Great Chief." She is a camp director of rich experience, as was proved both last year and this. Her nickname of "Sunny Sue" was well merited. This year's camp of quantity plus quality, proved her excellent capabilities.

Mrs. William Allan was a kind camp mother to all the girls, guided the housekeeping, inspected the tents and gave a varied and humorous report at dinner hour on the housekeeping abilities of the girls.

Miss Vera Freeman was ready in every way when the call for nurse was heard, and all bruises, aches and pains were soon healed under her splendid care.

TREASURE HUNTS

Miss Luella Harper kept the girls in fit condition with setting-up exercises, games, treasure hunts, baseball and swimming. The girls have a special request for next year' camp, and that is that Miss Harper be sports officer again.

Miss Urquhart and Miss Harper led the girls in camp craft and blueprint work, and at the close of camp, thirty-five girls received shields for successfully qualifying in the camp craft test. Geraldine Percival made a perfect record in the test.

Miss Minnie Beveridge taught the girls how to make book-ends, shaped as Dutch children, and some fine handiwork was completed.

Pottery, in the shap of vases bowls, baskets, etc., was formed ready for baking, the girls receiving instructions in the art from Miss Grute, Mrs. Hammond and Miss Beveridge.

Keen appetites were brought to the tables three times a day, and short work was made of the meals cooked by Mrs. Anderson, the cook with a sunny disposition and cheery helpfulness. Mrs. Eldridge and Mrs. Moffat alternately gave her much-needed assistance to feed so many hungry girls.

DAILY PROGRAMME

Each day's programme was as follows: 7 to 8 a.m., rising whistle, setting-up exercises, morning dip, morning watch and flag raising; 8 to 9:30 a.m., breakfast and housekeeping; 9:30 to 10 a.m., council ring, when the girls met with their camp director and planned their day's programme; 10 to 11 a.m., group Bible study. The course used, entitled "The Jesus Way of Living," was much enjoyed by the girls; 11 to 11:30 a.m., games; 11:30 to 12 noon, interest groups; 12:30 p.m., dinner.

From 1 to 2 p.m. was rest hour, followed by a swim in the Sooke River, a hike or games. At 7 p.m. the girls assembled for a short sunset worship service, conducted by one of the leaders until 7:30 o'clock, and from then until "lights out," the bonfire was the centre of lively sing-songs, stories and games.

One evening, many clever and amusing stunts were presented by the campers. "Dress-up" night was fun, and acting of nursery rhymes gave vent to much laughter. Sky-gazing was held in real earnest one evening, when Dr. Hogg, from the Dominion Observatory, talked about the stars, and pointed out their various positions.

ENTERTAIN VISITORS

On Saturday and Sunday afternoons, many parents and friends were entertained. Stunts, games ad singing made up a programme for Saturday afternoon. On Sunday morning, a service was held in a cathedral of trees. Rev. Hugh Nixon gave an inspiring sermon, and the girls, led by Barbara Daniels, conducted the service in a worthy and reverent spirit.

On the last evening, an impressive closing ceremony was held around the bonfire, when the girls and leaders, in single file, wearing blankets Indian fashion, slowly paraded around the grounds, with lighted candles, singing "Follow the Gleam," finally forming the "Fellowship Circle," singing "Taps."

Mme. Fahey to Sing Tonight

Admirers of Mme. Fahey, a former Victoria resident who, during and after the war, gave generously of her art in patriotic causes of one kind and another, will welcome the opportunity to hear her again on the occasion of her first recital here for some years. She is now living in Toronto, and although an almost annual visitor to British Columbia, she does not often give a complete programme.

Tonight at the Metropolitan Church she will give a concert of sixteen numbers, including some compositions which were made familiar to Victoria audiences by her years ago. She has also several more modern songs. Miss Beth Emery will be at the piano, and Edward Parsons at the organ.

Weddings

HOPKINS—DALE

A quiet wedding took place at St. Mary's Church on Saturday evening, when Rev. Canon Nunns united in marriage, Doris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale, 2254 Beach Drive, to Mr. Ronald Russell Hopkins, son of Mrs. M. Hopkins, of Victoria. After the ceremony, the bride and groom left for a trip up the Island. They will make their home on Superior Street.

REDFORD—McDONALD

PORT ALBERNI, July 27 — A pretty Summer wedding took place on Thursday evening last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. McDonald, of this city, when Miss Helen McDonald was united in marriage to Mr. John Redford, of Alberni City.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was beautifully gowned in a Barbara Dean gown of parchment georgette, cut on princess lines, flaring from below the knees, with tiny ruffles around the hem, which almost covered pansy slippers. Narrow ruffles were also worn on the short sleeves and collar. She wore a turban of the same material, edged with deep violet-colored velvet pansies which matched her gloves.

The bride's sister, Mrs. John Williamson, attended her as matron of honor, wearing a gown of blue appliqued silk net, floor length, with a pink velvet sash. Her picture hat and shoes were of matching pink. Mr. Greig Young supported the groom.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held in the home, when the guests were received by the bride's parents.

The bride's going away costume was of grey, with pale pink blouse. Mr. and Mrs. Redford will make their home in Nanaimo.

Fashion Decrees Rustle of Silks

PARIS, July 27 (AP).—The fashions of 1900 may color the coming Winter mode.

"Rustling taffeta petticoats, plume trimmed hats, and trained evening gowns," are the whispers which leak from designers' salons bustling with preparation of the new Winter wardrobes.

Taffeta petticoats of firm rustling silk designed to fit smoothly over the hips and finished with a pleated six-inch ruffle have been evolved by one designer to wear under slender evening gowns.

LABOR MINISTER ISSUES WARNING TO B.C. INDUSTRY

lumber industry and the conditions prevailing in their plants. If, after investigating, it is found that these complaints are warranted, then efforts must be made to rectify these conditions.

CITES U.S. EXAMPLE

"The National Industrial Recovery Act in the United States marked a radical departure from ideas hitherto held in that country, and in my opinion voluntary effort and co-operation on the part of all concerned can alone forestall similar drastic measures of control on this side of the line.

"These measures can be avoided if industrial employers will look at the situation through rational spectacles, bearing in mind that the success and continuity of business depend on the employer retaining the interest and good will of the employee.

"It is felt that in many instances the employers could adjust their operations in order to absorb large numbers of unemployed, and it is regrettable that some firms are attempting to meet increased business by working overtime rather than by putting additional numbers to work.

WILL ENFORCE LAW

"The policy of the Department of Labor will be to insist upon a strict observance of the Hours of Work Act, which provides for an eight-hour day and a forty-eight-hour week, and which, designed in normal times, must be considered more than ample under present conditions," the statement ended.

Asked to amplify his remarks, Mr. Dennies said he would shortly do so in a manner that would be understood by all. Remedial measures, he explained, if these became necessary, would be by way of direct provincial regulation, implimented by new legislation where necessary.

Mr. Dennies let it be known he is overhauling the Minimum Wage Act, and also has plans for putting teeth into the fair-wage clauses in other legislation. He referred briefly to a proposed new Trades School Act, but declined to discuss this intended legislation at this time. A great mass of data had been gathered, he said, on what hours are being worked, and the wages paid for this labor.

WARNING GIVEN

He pointed out that the Minimum Wage Act had not as yet been applied by the Minimum Wage Board to phases of the lumber industry. Time, he said, would be given to the lumber operators to right conditions, where these might be out of line with existing regulations. If those in the industry did not do so, the Province would, he averred.

Some lumber operators were paying wages considerably in excess of others, in a reasoned effort to contribute to better conditions all round. This disparity could not continue, and action would be taken to see that long hours and unreasonably low rates were obliterated.

"We cannot go on as we are today. The Hours of Work Act provides for an eight-hour day and a forty-eight-hour week. We have many complaints that it is not being obeyed, and our inspectors are out all the time tracing down these complaints. If the Province cannot get a reasonable response by appeal to voluntary action to remedy the situation, it will have to resort to other means, either by way of provincial regulations, or legislation, where necessary.

"In so far as I am concerned, I have set my hand to this thing, and I am going to see it through," Mr. Dennies concluded.

DEATH REMOVES WALTER HARVEY

There passed away, in the Jubilee Hospital, on Wednesday, Walter Harvey, aged seventy-eight years. Mr. Harvey was born in Yorkshire, England, but had spent the past fifty years of his life on Vancouver Island.

He was well known both in Victoria and in the Gulf Islands, and was an enthusiastic member of the local chess club. He was quite expert at the game and often contributed some interesting problems for chess players to work out.

Educated at Clifton College, near Bristol, England, he went up to Cambridge, where he graduated and later studied law. For some years he was a subaltern in a guards regiment.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

FELLOWSHIP AWARDED BY AGRICULTURISTS

REGINA, July 27 (CP).—The annual fellowship of the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists for 1933 was awarded to Dr. E. S. Archibald, director of Dominion Experimental Farms, Ottawa, at the annual banquet of the society last night.

In past years given in recognition of outstanding agricultural research, the award was this year given to Dr. Archibald for his work in the field of administration and his part in the preparation of the programme for the World's Grain Conference now in session here.

PIANIST GIVEN OVATION HERE

Viggo Kihl Receives Tumultuous Reception at a Shrine Hall Recital

Victoria experienced an evening of superb music last night in hearing, for the first time, Viggo Kihl, the eminent Danish pianist, who is here from Toronto. One of the few real musical giants who have honored the city with a visit, he gave a magnificent programme that offered constant evidence of a towering musical intellect, profound poetic insight, and an uncanny and baffling wizardry of technique.

The programme material was entirely of major works, and in itself intimated an unusual knowledge of pianoforte literature, but his unostentatious manner when he first appeared on the platform by no means suggested the consummate art which presently enthralled the listener.

The recital included such prodigious compositions as the Beethoven "Sonatta Appassionatta," which he made majestic in outline, introspective in mood, and magnificently and dramatically effective in performance; the Liszt "Campanella," a fine example of virtuosity; the Bach "Prelude and Five-Part Fugue," with which he opened his programme, played with impressive simplicity, clarity, and precisity; the brilliant Brahms' "Variations on a Theme by Paganini," a very scholarly and searching performance; the great Chopin "Polonaise," given as a final encore, with magnificent climactic effect, although coming at the end of an exhausting programme.

Any of these, played as they were, would have revealed him as a more than ordinarily profound musician, with a searchingly analytic quality of interpretation. To this group were added other works of more delicate, tender, poetic, or simple quality; his own arrangement of the Mozart "Minuet," from "Divertiment in D" for two violins and two horns, played with unexampled grace, elegance, preciosity and rhythmic exactitude; the Dohnayi "Capriccio," an example of sheer dazzling virtuosity; the tenderly musical Schubert-Liszt "Serenade"; and the group of Chopin, including the "Mazurka in F Minor," the singlingly beautiful "Barcarolle," the "Etude," "Minute Waltz," and others.

His reception was tumultuous.

DEAL FOR NAVAL BASE IS ALLEGED

Japanese Papers Publish Story of Bargain Between China and United States

TOKIO, July 28 (AP).—Assertions United States navy had made a deal to acquire a naval base on Tungshan Island, southwest of Amoy, China, were published in all morning vernacular newspapers today, apparently inspired by an identical source.

Reports reaching certain quarters in Tokio strongly indicate, according to the vernacular stories, United States navy had agreed with Chinese naval authorities of Fukien Province to deliver before January 1, 1934, two submarines, six airplanes and fifteen anti-aircraft guns with 5,000 rounds of ammunition in exchange for Tungshan. The six airplanes were said to include two bombers.

Little Bedtime Stories

Patience Against Patience

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

On the bank of the Smiling Pool sat Peter Rabbit. Standing in the water where it was more than an inch or two deep, was Longlegs the Heron. Had you happened along where you never in the world would have guessed that Peter and Longlegs were having a contest. In fact, Longlegs himself didn't know it. Peter knew it, however, and the knowledge make him anxious. The fact is, it was a case of patience against patience. Peter intended to sit still longer than Longlegs would stand still, and it was all for the safe of a little bit of a member of the Frog family, Piper the Hyla.

"I understand you to say something about a tail," said Longlegs

Where was Piper? That is what Longlegs meant to find out. He meant to stand perfectly still right where he was, with his head drawn down between his shoulders until Piper should begin to sing again or show himself. And all the time Piper was almost within reach, hiding under Peter Rabbit's fuzzy tail. Of course Peter knew he was there. In fact, Peter had sat down so that that funny little tail of his would cover Piper. And now he felt that he had to sit there until Longlegs should grow tired and fly away. If he didn't there would almost surely be a quick ending of Piper the Hyla.

Now there are times when Peter Rabbit can sit as still as anyone I know of, for as long as anyone I know of, but this was neither the time nor place Peter would have chosen to show how patient he can be. In the first place, it was broad daylight. In the next place, it was right out in the open. When Peter takes a nap or has a day dream, it usually is in the dear Old Crier Patch, where no harm can come to him.

Peter was nervous. Longlegs wasn't. Peter was afraid that Redtail the Hawk or Reddy Fox or Old Man Coyote would happen along. Longlegs didn't care who happened along. You see, Longlegs was quite at home, while Peter wasn't at all. Nevertheless, Peter sat there and bravely hoped that Longlegs would soon get tired. The thought of poor little Piper depending upon him for his life helped Peter to be patient. Now, when Peter sits still for a long, long time he sometimes gets to thinking out loud.

"This certainly is a funny use for my tail," said Peter.

"What's that?" asked Longlegs.

"Nothing, just nothing at all. I was talking to myself," replied Peter hurriedly.

"I understand you to say something about a tail," said Longlegs. "Were you speaking of your tail or my tail?"

There was a conspicuous look in the sharp eyes which seemed to bore right into Peter.

"It was my own tail I was speaking of," replied Peter hastily. "You know, I get thinking of my tail every once in a while, and what a funny, foolish little tail it is. I was thinking about it just now and I guess I must have spoken right out loud."

"You certainly did," replied Longlegs, and once more became silent. And there Longlegs stood and stood and stood and stood. And there Peter Rabbit sat and sat and sat and sat. It was patience against patience, and all for the sake of Piper the Hyla.

Fire Threatens Entire Village

MONCTON, N.B., July 27 (CP).—Fire which broke out in the village of Albert, thirty-five miles from Moncton, tonight wiped out twenty-seven buildings, and threatened the entire village before it was brought under control.

The loss, which included the total destruction of seven residences, two stores, ten barns, a warehouse and wood-working shop, is estimated at about $61,000.

PERFECT TELEVISION SUPER EYE CLAIMED

OTTAWA, July 27 (CP).—Invention of a "super eye" which, it is claimed, will make perfect television possible, revolutionize speedy transmission of messages and motion pictures, and multiply a thousandfold the power of telescopes, was announced today. The inventor is Dr. Francois C. Henhrteau, head of the astrophysical branch of the Dominion Observatory.

The bazaar was in full swing when a young man strolled round the various stalls. He had no intention of buying. As he passed a tastefully decorated stall the pretty saleswoman detained him.

"Won't you buy a cigarette-holder?" she asked.

"No, thanks; I don't smoke," was the curt reply.

"Or a pen-wiper worked by my own hands?"

"I don't write."

"Then do have this nice box of chocolates."

"I don't eat sweets."

The girl's patience was exhausted. "Sir," she said, grimly, "will you buy this box of soap?"

The young man paid up.

Former St. Ann's Pupils Hold Annual Celebration

Scores Gather at Academy to Commemorate Anniversary Day of Patron Saint and Seventy-Fifth Anniversary of Sisters' Arrival

The annual ceremonies connected with the celebration of St. Ann's day concluded yesterday at the Academy on Humbolt Street with the sixteenth annual reunion of former pupils.

The occasion, assisted by brilliant Summer weather, brought a throng of "old girls" who received some or all of their education at the Academy. Among the scores who gathered in the old halls were elderly ladies who had attended school there sixty or sixty-five years ago.

Every year a special surprise is in store for the Sisters in the arrival of some former pupil whom they have not seen for years. This year it was Mrs. J. Sauer, who as little Teresa Rhody, then less than two years old, was a member of the convent nursery when it was conducted by Miss Mary Mainville, who volunteered her services free, in 1858, with the very first Sisters of St. Ann to arrive here. Little Teresa, like all the children in the nursery department was a great favorite of the late Bishop Seghers, then a frequent visitor in the nursery, and even after these many years Mrs. Sauer has a faint memory of the great pioneer bishop who sacrificed his life during one of his missionary trips up the Coast.

BEAUTIFUL DECORATIONS

All reception rooms, the halls, and the pretty Academy auditorium were radient with flowers yesterday, great bowls of Marguerites, Spanish broom, and sweet peas filling the window embrasures, centering the tables and forming a frame for the statues. In the main living-room, where guests registered as they arrived, there was the usual display of old albums and school registers, in the former many quaint and historic portraits of pioneer days being found.

Among the senior Sisters of the Convent who were on the reception committee were Sister Mary of the Infant Jesus, who the previous day had renewed her vows in celebration of sixty years' association with the Order of St. Ann; Sister Mary Margaret of the Sacred Heart, who came to Victoria about 1884; Sister Mary Theodore, who came here in 1878, the same year as Sister Mary of the Infant Jesus; and Sister Mary Berchmans, who came to St. Ann's in 1879. These long years' service in the Victoria house of the order, they were heard telling visitors, testified to the wonderful climate of Vancouver Island.

THE PROGRAMME

The occasion also formed part of the protracted celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the arrival of the Sisters of St. Ann in British Columbia, a matter which was referred to in the two poems (by Mrs. M. H. Rathom, a former pupil). These were read by Mrs. E. Reese-Burns at the formal programme that took place in the auditorium about 3 o'clock, preceding tea. The first of the poems was entitled "All Hail Thrice Glorious Jubilee," and the second was dedicated to "The Little Old Log Cabin of St. Ann's."

The auditorium was crowded when the programme opened with the singing of "O Canada," Mrs. Chapman at the piano, and Rosetta Lee playing the violin. Other numbers in the singing of which everybody joined, were "Pioneer Gifts" and "Darling I Am Growing Old," and "For Auld Lang Syne" with the substitution of the name of the Alma Mater.

SECRETARY'S REPORT

Mrs. Lavalle, another former pupil, read the annual report of the Association of St. Ann's Former Pupils, prepared by the secretary, Miss Nellie Redgrave; and all old pupils joined in unison in reciting the pledge of the association "For the Greater Glory of God Etc." Other features on the programme were the monologue, "The Bridge Party," given by Miss May Murray; a vocal solo by Miss Joan Durbin; and the benediction.

A specially-conducted tour to the old log cabin schoolhouse, in which some of the older former pupils had received their first schooling, was a part of the afternoon routine and many of the visitors also re-explored the old gardens, which have many interesting pioneer souvenirs amid the flowers.

In the serving of tea the Sisters were assisted by some of the younger "old girls," many of whom were also present to assist in the interesting annual celebration.

Colfax Lodge

There was a fair attendance at Colfax Rebekah Lodge, No. 1, on Tuesday evening, the meeting being followed by a game of bridge. Prizes were won by Mrs. Watson and Mrs. Crocker. At the conclusion of the game, ice cream was served and a social hour enjoyed. At the next meeting on August 8 a school of instruction will be held and all members are requested to be present.

Bowling Club

The Canadian Pacific Ladies' Bowling Club entertained the ladies of the Victoria West and Lake Hill bowling clubs on Wednesday afternoon. The prize winners were Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Webster, Mrs. Dixon and Mrs. Noble; consolation, Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Riddle, Mrs. McCallum and Mrs. Harris. Tea was served on the lawn adjoining the bowling green.

To the relief of the neighbors, an unpopular family was moving from the district.

While the furniture was being brought out, some difficulty was experienced in removing a piano from an upper room.

"Lower it through the window," suggested an onlooker.

Then came a suggestion from the man next door. "I've got an idea," he said acidly. "Let it come out as it went in—on the instalment system."

A PRAYER HYMN

This hymn is said to have been written by a nineteen-year-old servant girl. It was read to a large congregation by Dr. G. Campbell Morgan at one of his services last Summer at Westminster Chapel, London.

LORD of all pots and pans and things; since I've no time to be
A saint by doing lovely things, or watching late with Thee,
Or dreaming in the dawnlight, or storming heaven's gates,
Make me a saint by getting meals, and washing up the plates.

Altho I must have Martha's hands, I have a Mary mind;
And when I black the boots and shoes, Thy sandals, Lord, I find.
I think of how they trod the earth, what time I scrub the floor;
Accept this meditation, Lord, I haven't time for more.

Warm all the kitchen with Thy love, and light it with Thy peace;
Forgive me all my worrying, and make all grumbling cease.
Thou Who didst love to give men food, in room or by the sea,
Accept this service that I do—I do it unto thee.

—M. H. K. in The Westminster Record.

Alexander Repairs To Cost $250,000; Ship Is Chartered

Todd Drydocks to Return Damaged Liner in Time for Southbound Sailing on August 29—Ruth Alexander Brings Many Passengers

At a cost of approximately $250,000, the H. F. Alexander, of the Pacific Steamship Line, which was damaged when she struck a submerged shoal off Point Wilson last Monday, will be repaired by the Todd Drydocks, of Seattle.

While the repairs are being effected, the City of Los Angeles, of the Watson-Lasco Line, will be chartered to fill in on the H. F.'s run between here and California ports.

Although no definite word was received here by the local office, it is believed that the City of Los Angeles may be made ready in time to make the regular Saturday night sailing northward out of San Francisco. This would enable the Pacific Steamship Company to resume its regular Tuesday night sailing out of this port.

IS LARGE LINER

The City of Los Angeles is a former trans-Atlantic liner, being one of the Princess ships turned over to the United States as reparations. After leaving the Atlantic run, she operated opposite the City of Honolulu on the San Francisco-Honolulu run. She has passenger accommodation for more than 600 passengers, but is not quite so fast as the H. F. Alexander, averaging only eighteen knots.

Under the terms of the contract with Todd Drydocks, the Pacific Steamship Company is guaranteed return of its liner in time for her sail from Seattle and Victoria on August 29.

A survey made of the H. F.'s hull revealed that seventy plates were damaged, when she scraped the rock. Approximately 250 men will be employed to rush the work on the ship.

According to latest advices received here, the Ruth Alexander, of the same line, was not expected to reach Rithet Piers until 2 o'clock this morning. Passengers for debarkation here were to be kept on board until 7 a.m., so that they might retire for the night at the usual time.

There are 100 passengers on board for Victoria. Outbound the vessel will sail from here Saturday night, picking up 100 passengers.

DAMSTERDYK IN FROM HOLLAND

Holland-American Liner Brings Vacationists Here From European Ports

Carrying a holiday list of European and California passengers, the Holland-American liner, Damsterdyk, docked here from the Old Country yesterday morning. There were six passengers from Holland and England, and thirteen tourists from California.

Among those to debark here was Miss B. Eekman, of England, who will spend two months with her brother, L. J. Eekman, assistant city building inspector. N. G. Jannink, of Holland, is making the round trip aboard the Damsterdyk.

Also from Holland was Miss W. Cau, who will visit friends in Vancouver. Others on board were Mrs. S. Edgar, en route to Vernon; Miss Livingstone, going to New Westminster, and Miss A. M. Marx, visiting friends in Vancouver.

Ninety tons of freight were discharged here, while 1,500 cases of canned loganberries were picked up for delivery to the London market.

MAURETANIA TO GO ON CRUISES

Cunard Line Officials Visit Victoria to Interview Representatives

G. D. Huband, general manager for the Cunard Line in Canada, with headquarters in Montreal, accompanied by Peter Whitelock, British Columbia manager of the same line, in Vancouver, were visitors in the city yesterday, interviewing local representatives.

Mr. Huband stated that while passenger travel was still a bit "spotty," there had been a slight increase over last year's bookings. The freight situation, however, was much better, he reported.

The Cunard Line was conducting a number of special tours this year, Mr. Huband said, that were attracting considerable attention.

The most popular of these were the cruises out of New York to the West Indies and South America by the Ss. Mauretania, which will sail on August 5, 22 and September 9.

Considerable interest has been aroused in the Southern Hemisphere round-the-world cruise aboard the Ss. Corinthian, leaving New York on January 11. Although the sailing date was six months away, many inquiries already had been received for bookings, he declared.

Railway Official Is Coming Here

A. F. CHAPMAN, JR.

Who for five or six years was agent here of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railway, will arrive in Victoria today to renew old acquaintances, whom he left a year ago to became general agent in Tacoma. Accompanying him will be Mrs. Chapman, who also is well known in this city.

FAST TRIP BEING MADE

Hikawa Maru Is Due Ahead of Schedule With Rich Silk Consignment

Making a fast trip from the Orient, the N.Y.K. liner Hikawa Maru is reported due at William Head quarantine station late Saturday night, having left Yokohama on July 19. This will bring her in a day ahead of schedule.

The vessel has increased her speed this trip on account of the heavy cargo of raw silk aboard. Insurance rates on cargo of this type are on an hourly basis, which makes speed of paramount importance.

A special train awaits the arrival of the vessel in Vancouver, where the silk will be unloaded. There are nine carloads for delivery to the Eastern market.

In addition to the silk, the Hikawa Maru has 500 tons of general freight for Canada. A total of sixty-six passengers are on board.

After clearing from here and Vancouver, the ship will proceed to Seattle to unload and take on freight for the return voyage.

EXTENSION OF SERVICE MADE

Pacific Steamship Company Will Inaugurate Mexican Coast Route

Extension of the Pacific Steamship Company's Seattle-Victoria-California service to take in Mexican ports will shortly be put into effect, it was learned here yesterday by William M. Allen, local representative.

The ships sailing from Victoria will connect with the vessels of the new line (which will be known as the Mexican Mail Line) at San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Inauguration of the new service awaits only completion of operating details before two small steamers are put on the run under the Mexican flag.

From San Francisco and Los Angeles the vessels will call at all West Coast ports South to Acapulco, and up the Gulf of California to Guaymas.

A contract has been signed with the Mexican Government, it was announced, giving the new line operating rights in return for carriage of mails and Mexican troop movements or transportation for Government officials as designated.

Substituting for the steamer Northwestern, which is aground near Lynn Canal, the Alaska Steamship Company has commissioned the Lakina to the Southeastern Alaska service. The Lakina will call here, northbound, next Wednesday.

TINY MOTOR SHIP SAILS NORTHWARD

Piux XI Will Be Used by Bishop of Arctic Among Eskimo Charges

DANGEROUS VOYAGE BEING UNDERTAKEN

HALIFAX, July 27 (CP).—The tiny motorship Piux XI, is on her way north on a dangerous voyage through Arctic waters to Hudson Bay for service in the Roman Catholic missions among the Eskimos of Canada's northland.

The thirty-foot craft set out from Halifax under Captain G. S. Pentz, of Lahave, N.S., on her long trip. A crew of four will navigate her through the perilous reaches along the Labrador coast and past the ice-infested waters opening into Hudson Bay.

Through Chesterfield Inlet she will proceed to Churchfield, there to be taken over by Bishop Turqtetil, the "Bishop of the Arctic," who plans to use the little motor vessel in transporting supplies among his widely-scattered Eskimo charges. The Piux XI, named after the reigning Pope, will be in service for about three months of the present year, after which she will be laid up for the long northern Winter.

CARRIES RADIO

On her voyage north, the Piux XI carries Rev. Dr. Dutilly, of the Oblate Order; Dr. G. Gardner, professor at the University of Montreal, and a Montreal Boy Scout, Alfred Mahoney. Father Dutilly is in charge of the ship's radio equipment, a powerful short-wave transmitting and receiving outfit that will enable him to keep in touch with the outside world even after the vessel has reached Churchfield.

In case emergency should arise while the ship is making her way through the ice fields, Father Dutilly will use the portable two-way radio he carries in a suitcase. The compact set may be set up on the ice for immediate transmission and will send and receive signals over a radius of several hundreds of miles.

Dr. Gardner's special interest is biology, and he will collect specimens of Northern life during his stay in the Arctic country. He plans also to make a study of the teeth structure of the Eskimo, returning to Montreal with data which may prove highly valuable.

THREE EXCURSION TRIPS ARE MADE

In addition to the usual quota of tourists brought here from the Mainland by C.P.R. coastwise steamers, some 1,200 excursionists arrived to spend several hours in the city yesterday.

The Ss. Lady Alexandra brought a party of 1,000 persons from White Rock, while the steamer Tacoma brought another 200 excursionists from Seattle.

While these visitors were en route here, 400 Victorians were taken to Vancouver on an excursion aboard the Ss. Princess Louise. They arrived back in Victoria at 11 o'clock last night.

EMPIRE SCREENS CHARMING STORY

"Mary Pickford's New Picture, "Secrets," Makes First Appearance in Victoria

Cycles may come and cycles may go, but the age-old love story of the man and woman, who fight their way to happiness together, overcoming all obstacles, remains basically the greatest and most satisfactory screen theme.

It all depends upon the way and by whom the story's told.

So declared Mary Pickford, who considered more than thirty vehicles, including stage plays, best-selling novels and screen originals, before she chose "Secrets," which comes to the Empire Theatre today, as the story best calculated to prove of universal appeal.

"Secrets" is a simple love story, according to Miss Pickford, a down-to-earth romance of plain people, without so-called sophistication, or "daring situations."

There's an elopement to foil a rich American father who wants his daughter to wed a titled Englishman instead of a poor clerk; a young couple battling the hardships of Western ranch life; battles with cattle rustlers; the rearing of a family; eventual prosperity, clouded by the husband's affair with another woman; a loyal, devoted wife who refuses to let threatened scandal wreck their happiness.

These are the ingredients with which Miss Pickford and her supporting cast, including Leslie Howard opposite the star, Director Frank Borzage, Scenarist Frances Marion and a technical staff have made "Secrets."

AMUSEMENTS

On the Screen

Capitol—Charlie Ruggles in "Melody Cruise."

Columbia—"Are You Listening," with William Haines.

Dominion—William Powell in "Private Detective 62."

Empire—"Secrets," with Mary Pickford.

Playhouse—Norma Shearer in "A Free Soul."

COLUMBIA THEATRE "Are You Listening?" which opened yesterday at the Columbia Theatre, proves that a radio broadcasting station is as good a locale for intense drama as any, for J. P. McEvoy's unusual radio story has been made into a talking picture which leaves little to be desired in the way of fast action, an alluring romance and plenty of diverting comedy episodes. William Haines and Madge Evans head the cast. Also shown is "Washington Masquerade," with Lionel Barrymore.

CAPITOL THEATRE A husband on a spree, a bachelor on the loose, a silken siren on mischief bent, two gold-diggers on the make, an angel on a vacation and thirty-six alluring girls on a party aboard the Ss. Las Ondas for a "Melody Cruise" bound for fun, hilarity, spice, love and romance. Charlie Ruggles, Phil Harris, Greta Nissen, Helen Mack and three dozen scintillating, eye-catching blonde, brunette and red-headed beauties form the cast in this R.K.O.-Radio picture at the Capitol Theatre. "Christopher Strong," with Katharine Hepburn, is also shown.

DOMINION THEATRE It looks as if Margaret Lindsay, who plays opposite William Powell in his latest Warner Bros.' picture, "Private Detective 62," now at the Dominion Theatre, is going to be the screen sensation of 1933. With but few pictures to her credit, including "Cavalcade" and "Private Detective 62," she was chosen for one of the leading roles in George Arliss' latest picture, "Voltaire"—which was given a production more elaborate than any of his pictures since "Disraeli."

LADYSMITH NOT INSOLVENT YET

Quarterly Audit Shows Island City's Financial Affairs Definitely Improving

LADYSMITH, July 27.—The firm in New York holding the city electric light debentures, to the amount of $25,000, due last May, wrote asking for a settlement of the outstanding amount in full or a mutually satisfactory arrangement to take care of any balance. It was stated at the council table that the delay in converting the bonds to meet this obligation had netted the city an advantageous profit during the last two months, and a satisfactory settlement of the matter would be arranged within a few more days.

The city is faced with a law suit on an account contracted by C. G. Callin, while in the employ of the city, with a Victoria firm which supplied Callin with radios, three of which he disposed of. The city denies responsibility for the individual purchases of Callin when city clerk in this matter, and the Victoria firm charges otherwise. The city's argument will be handled by V. Harrison, of Nanaimo.

ASK FOR LIGHTS

A delegation of two members of the United Farmers of Canada, Diamond Local, waited upon the council to ask that a few street lights be extended north from First Avenue along the Island Highway for a few hundred yards towards the Diamond district. T. Doherty and R. Simpson, who composed the delegation, explained that coming towards the city during the dark hours, pedestrians were blinded by the street lights uptown, and were forced to walk on the highway, as the footpath was dangerous under the circumstances. With considerable motor traffic on the highway, the alternative was almost as hazardous, and in view of the fact that residents of the district did most of their shopping in Ladysmith, the delegates were of the opinion that the city council would be performing a worthy service by lighting the footpath to the limits of the school district.

Mayor Mason was of the opinion that the matter should have received the attention of the city council many years ago, when finances were not so stringent as they are today. The council promised to give the matter full consideration.

CITY HALL REPAIRS

The roof of the city hall requires some repairs and two prices quoted by one contractor were $167 and $201 for the job. N. A. Morrison, city clerk and building inspector, was of the opinion that temporary repairs with shingles could be effected for less than $50, and suggested that this alternative was desirable as an economy measure at this juncture. The matter was laid over for further consideration.

The auditor's quarterly report was to hand. The significant feature of the document was the presentation of figures that showed the city financial affairs definitely improving. Although no bank loan to finance 1933 expenditures had been negotiated, the city was gradually making headway, and looked in a fair way to be able to follow "the pay as you go" plan before long. City obligations in arrears are not heavy, and the report altogether belies the impression of the early days of the year that the city was doomed to financial disaster.

CEMETERY BUSINESS

The cemetery committee, headed by Alderman Vandecasteyn, meantime is transforming the local cemetery into a well-groomed and carefully-superintended area, and is earning the approbation of the community for these efforts. Alderman Vandecasteyn suggested that a particular day be designated by the council, to be observed by the citizens as a day when they should visit the cemetery and become practically conscious of the need for diligent interest in the appearance of the cemetery. The matter will be discussed more fully later.

Alderman W. Joyce, convalescing from his recent serious accident at South Wellington mine, wrote the council at the regular business meeting held this evening, and thanked them for their sympathy and good wishes. He expressed the hope that he would very soon reoccupy his usual place at the council table.

BIG FIELD WILL SEEK GOLF TITLE

Close to Six Hundred Enter U.S. Amateur—Somerville to Play

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP).—A total of 580 golfers, only twenty fewer than last year, has been entered for the United States amateur golf championship.

All except C. Ross Somerville, of Canada, defending titleholder, must play in the sectional qualifying competition, to be held simultaneously August 8 in twenty-two districts. The qualifiers, numbering between 150 and 165, will start in the championship play at the Kenwood Country Club, Cincinnati, September 11.

The Metropolitan New York district, with eighty-three candidates for twenty-two qualifying places, tops the sectional list, followed by Chicago with seventy-two and Cincinnati with sixty entries. The Pacific Coast's three qualifying centres have posted only twenty-four entries to contest for six places.

Prescott S. Bush, chairman of the U.S.G.A. championship committee, made public today the list of districts entries, qualifying places allotted and courses over which play will be held.

JACK WRIGHT NOT PLAYING IN SINGLES

Thrice Canadian Champion Will Play in Doubles at Vancouver

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

VANCOUVER, July 27 (CP).—Dr. Jack Wright declared today he is through with singles play in tournament tennis. At the age of thirty-one, the veteran Davis Cup player, three times Canadian champion, says he has followed the exhausting, perspiration-soaked trail to a singles title for the last time.

With the Canadian championships opening here next week, the doctor has refused to enter the singles. Only after much persuasion did he consent to enter the doubles as partner to Walter Martin, the Regina and Toronto star.

"I don't mind doubles," said Dr. Wright. That's fun. But singles involves a terrific amount of hard work and I'm not as young as I used to be. I haven't had time to practise and there would be a good chance of some youngster, playing confidently after a Summer of tournament tennis, beating me in an early round.

"Some years ago," continued the doctor, "I watched Willard Crocker, one of the greatest players Canada ever produced, trying to stage a comeback in a Montreal tournament after a long lay-off. He was beaten by a comparative unknown and the spectators booed him, called him names, said he was a quitter. I promised myself then and there I would never leave myself open to such treatment."

ALWAYS AN AMATEUR

"Officials of the Canadian Tennis Association have insisted that I remain in competition and I sympathize with their point of view," declared Dr. Wright. "But I have myself to consider and I must earn my living. I have always played the game as an amateur should, and I have never been a 'tennis bum.'

"I have won the Canadian title three times," stated the doctor. "What difference will it make to me twenty years from now if I have won it three times or four? There is nothing more for me to win in Canada, and I do not aspire to greater heights. I prefer to play the game in future as a game, and not as a nerve-wracking, punishing grind of continual practice and grueling competition."

In 1931, Dr. Wright won the Canadian title for the third time and announced he was leaving Montreal, home of his major tennis career, to join the staff of the Vancouver General Hospital. He said he would devote himself entirely to his hospital duties and would have no time for tournaments. Few believed him, for he was at the height of his career, but they began to take notice when he failed to defend his crown at Ottawa last season.

The black-haired veteran returned to the courts to lead Canada to victory over Cuba in the first round Davis Cup play this year. He and his mates went down before the superior ability of the United States team a week later, but these matches were played during Dr. Wright's vacation. He intimated he might again consider Davis Cup competition, but he is definitely through with tournament singles.

JUNIOR SOFTBALL

The first game of the Junior League softball knockout series will be played tonight at lower Central Park at 6:30 o'clock between Vampires and Straith's Cardinals. Wiffen and Taylor will be in charge of the game.

What's What, and What's Hot at the Willows

(B.C. Tennis Championships)

By H.T.M.

Saalams—yea, incalculable and inexhaustable saalams—to Bud Hocking! For, by the grace of Allah, and by the chin whiskers on my grandmother's tortoise-shell cat, Bud yesterday drenched himself in a glory that seldom drips upon the fustian pates of mortals! Oh valorous feat! "Horatious and the Bridge" was as kitten-play beside it—while Caesar's invasion of Cis-Alpine Gaul was a mere cabaret-turn by comparison!

• • •

By his truly stupendous exhibition against Mel Dranga, Bud kept a bursting gallery on tenter-hooks for an hour and a half. Sans dout—he played priceless tennis. Boldness—striking out—dashing up to the net and spiking the enemy's guns, were his tactics—and were they not emphatically rewarded? Never before has Bud throttled a tennis match as he did that one against Mel Dranga.

Throughout the first set the pace was violent. Heavy cross-court driving bouts died at sudden darts to the net. Occasional lobs received butchery that sent them yelping to the base line, and to bounce "flub" against the canvas. Bud snapped up that set at 6-3 and scarce made an error. Mel won the second by a scorching "come-back," but even in this set Bud was still vaunting a murderous clip, and seemed not the slightest perturbed at dropping it. In the third (still cool as an Eskimo) Bud churned his way through to 5-1 before you could say "scat" or "how's your grandfather"—and then, after a tense deuce-and-vantage game (with Dranga serving) he finally whacked over his "coup de grace," and the match became the sole heritage of none other than Mr. Roes (Bud) Hocking, of Victoria, British Columbia, in person! (And that is divinely memorable.)

So much for the latest in National Heroes—and now for other throatings. For instance, what happened yesterday morning? Nothing very much. A few jaggery "consolation" games were being buffetted hither and yon by the morning hurricane—and a few yawning spectators nearly cracked their lower jaws while noting them.

But, around 12 noon, up on the club veranda, there suddenly welled an unprecedented and unheralded sort of furore around the crimson coronet of one, Lloyd Budge. Apparently some sort of Spanish Inquisition was in a tense, but embryonic, state. Budge was being dragged bodily through the "third degree." Eye-witnesses in the case vouchsafed that Lloyd had had the temerity and effrontry to lope up to the veranda with his facade heavily cluttered up with that crimson cosmetic that whispers of the Primrose Path, or at any rate of Romance—in other words, Lloyd was literally mired with rouge and lip-stick!

Terrible! Scandalous! Infamous! Under venemous cross-examination by the Attorney-General (Mrs. Gross), Lloyd limply pleaded his innocence. Again and again he stated that the crimson blotches were the chaste juices of the stewed loganberries that he had nonchalantly "woofed up" at breakfast. But none believed him—and the jury (consisting of Messrs. Merle Moore, John Murio, Charlie Hunt, Bob Witt and several other impeccable and unimpeachable citizens), roared out a verdict of "guilty." At this tragic condemnation Budge hung his head and remained silent. The hanging will take place beneath the Tyburn Tree, directly after the finals, on Saturday. (Don't miss it!)

Just before two there was a mammoth fluttering of skirts and combing of locks, as old men and maidens, young men and children, rushed in a jittering avalanche to kneel, stand, bow, bend or bob before the press camera. A group, in fact. One of those dreadful things wherein humans leer, smirk, grin vaciously, scowl hideously, try to sport profiles they haven't got, and so on—and do their utmost to look like anything on earth but what they really are. Preposterous! Still, these "horrors" have to be taken—otherwise I suppose the world would cease revolving. (I wonder why?)

That over, (Allah be praised), the tennis continued and people once more became semi-coherent. Don Campbell on No. 1 gave the home-towners a dart of hope when he tore the first set away from Charlie Hunt at 6-2. But, after a while, Charlie began finding his stride, and though the volleys were long and full of verve—yet Hunt unravelled stuff that was too hot for Don, and finally conquered at 2-6, 6-3, 6-2. Hunt is slight and very young. Swift as Achilles, this heady young man darted from corner to corner, and from baseline to net, without any sign of effort or hesitation. There's a nice sureness about his game and he's got a forehand that literally hurts.

While this match was clinking away on No. 1, a really Olympian "mixed" (Miss Wheeler and Rosenberg versus Miss Bundy and Russell), was capering about on No. 2. Miss Bundy was the heroine of this engagement, and Ned Russell the hero. Miss Bundy did startling work in this game, and some of Ned's genius at the net might well earn him a Place in the Sun. Nor were Miss Wheeler and Rosenberg by any means under the influence of drugs. Not they. The game pulsed with action from "hor d'oeuvres" to "coffee and Cognac."

John Murio had to keep on the move to trounce Marsh Gordon, but was seldom in jeopardy. Big John seemed to be enjoying himself—so did Marsh. There were some nice crisp rallies in this—but Murio has a masterful way with him which abolished Marsh to the song of 6-2, 6-1. (Murio meets that rascally young Sabin in the "semis" today—the lad who recently held a fashion show—you know—that blazer business—and that's likely to be a match! Sabin's no slug, even on a grass court—and unless I'm already in the family vault there's going to be some fun!)

On a distant court, laughter and quaint girlish noises made us crane the old conk to take a surreptious peep at Jean Campbell and Mildred Philipsen versus Helen Campbell and Mona Miller. These dear old ladies seemed to be having a wonderful time. Jolly old souls! And I could just picture them, thirty years ago, in puff sleeves and bustles—while Colonel Plumpton (late Grenadier Guards) and Commander Snuffitupp (R.N., retired) applauded them with innumerable "Bravos," while puffing their cheroots and sipping their mint-juleps on the "Hacienda." (Helen and Mona won, 6-3, 6-2.)

Wayne Sabin and Lloyd Budge crossed in another single which Sabin won 6-1, 6-2. (How that little imp managed to beat Lloyd at that score is a mystery to me. Whenever I watched them, Lloyd seemed to be playing rattling good tennis—however, Wayne won and Lloyd waned—which is both incongruous and peculiar.)

• • •

Mrs. Gross and Budge gobbled up Helen Campbell and Bud Hocking—but I missed that while "thruppping-up" a bumper of jolly old British tiffin (tea). Mrs. Gross also won her single—and I want to tell you that Mrs. Gross is memorable. What she doesn't know about the fundamentals of tennis is not worth knowing. Yes, she's distinctly memorable.

• • •

Close to 6 o'clock two doubles teams gamboled into the arena. On No. 1 Lichtenberger and Underwood opposed Dranga and Sabin and on No. 2 Hunt and Russell matched Gordon and Williams. Both these matches were fairly easy wins for Lichtenberger and Underwood, and Hunt and Russell, respectively, but both had their "moments." Sabin and Dranga have not often paired together, and at times this was obvious. Marsh and Dunc also had difficulties of a certain sort—and that, too, was obvious. Hence the Pyramids.

These matches finished within two minutes of each other—whereupon the gallery lurched from their loins to their feet and disbanded in dignified disorder—which may be impossible.

Behind them, they left two lonely specks of white—Noel Radford and Harold Parfitt—beleaguering each other in a long and lethal "consolation." What the issue was, I know not. 'Twas late—and as an abysmal hush descended with the twilight, I left them in their great, white loneliness. (Today we will know whether they remained at it all night, or whether they died honorably on the field of battle. Hist! Until today!) P.S. Don't forget the dance. Tonight! Hotcha! (Curtain.)

MEDICA SETS NEW 400-YARD RECORD

SEATTLE, July 27 (AP).—Jack Medica, husky Washington Athletic Club swimmer, who came home a week ago from a national meet at Chicago with two national titles, bettered an accepted record over the 400-yard course tonight by eleven seconds.

Swimming in his home club twenty-five-yard tank, he was timed for the distance in four minutes fifteen seconds, compared with Arne Borg's mark of four minutes twenty-six seconds. Borg's time is listed in the latest A.A.U. Almanac.

On the way to the mark, he also bettered Johnny Weismuller's "noteworthy performance" of 2:37 for 250 yards, being timed for that distance in 2:34.

BIG FIELD WILL SEEK NET TITLES

Large Number of Easterners to Compete in Canadian Tourney Next Week

VANCOUVER July 7 (CP).—Entries from Manitoba and Saskatchewan for the Canadian tennis tournament opening here Monday were received today by Secretary R. D. Kinmond, of the Vancouver Tennis Club. Although the entry list was officially closed tonight, Mr. Kinmond said several post entries were expected before Saturday night.

Manitoba Association will be represented by three players new to national competition. Two juniors, Cuthbert Hopper and Marshall Smith are also entered in the men's singles and Gordon Horn completed the Manitoba trio.

Saskatchewan will be represented by three experienced players, all from Saskatoon. Vera Borland, former University of Saskatchewan stylist, will bid for the women's singles crown. The veteran chop-stroke artist, Fred Arscott, and southpaw Alf Bence are entered in the men's events.

HAYDON IS ENTRANT

No entries have been received so far from Alberta, although the Calgary junior star, Stan Haydon, now a resident of Vancouver, will be a formidable contender for the junior title held by Colin Milne, of Vancouver. Haydon won the Alberta junior championship last year and reached the semi-finals of the men's singles. He is playing well this season and recently gained the quarter-final bracket of the British Columbia clay courts singles.

In addition to the troupe of forty United States players now participating in the British Columbia championships at Victoria, several other American players are expected for the Canadian tourney. Entries of Merle Moore, Tucson, Ariz., and Max Thatcher, Los Angeles, were received today.

San Peine Wins Goodwood Cup By Four Lengths

GOODWOOD, England, July 27 (AP).—Edward Esmond's three-year-old bay colt San Peine today raced to a four-length victory in the Goodwood cup at two miles five furlongs, a state event for three-year-olds and up, weight for age.

Sir Harold Wernher's Brown Jack was second, one and one-half lengths ahead of Sir Frederick Ely's Ximenes. Only two other horses ran.

San Peine, by Sansovino out of Oswyn, paid twenty to one, while the odds on Brown Jack to win were five to one and thirty-three to one on Ximenes.

PLAYS BRILLIANTLY TO DEFEAT SEATTLE ACE IN THREE SETS

Semi-Finals Reached in All Divisions—Campbell Succumbs to Hunt—Murio Eliminates Gordon —Only Six Local Players Left in Running —Mary Campbell Meets Mrs. Gross

Playing like a man possessed, Bud Hocking, Victoria ace, sprung the upset of the tournament yesterday by eliminating Mel Dranga, of Seattle, holder of the Washington, Idaho and Utah state championships, in the quarter-finals of the men's singles in the British Columbia open lawn tennis championships at the Willows courts, 6-3, 2-6, 6-1. Both players put up a fine exhibition, but Hocking was invincible. His placements had Dranga helpless time after time, and his cross-court volleys, accurate to a hair's breadth, seldom failed in their purpose.

Other semi-finalists will be Charlie Hunt, of San Francisco, who defeated Don Campbell, of Victoria, in the other feature singles match, after Campbell had taken the first set with apparent ease. In the last two sets, however, Hunt's superior placements and change of pace had telling effect, and combined with a battery of ace services, were too much for Campbell, who faded, losing, 6-1, 3-6, 6-2.

Wayne Sabin, of Portland, and John Murio, of San Francisco, had little trouble in winning their way into the semi-final round, the former eliminating Lloyd Budge, Oakland, 6-1, 6-2, and the latter sending out Marsh Gordon, 6-2, 6-1.

MRS. GROSS ADVANCES

The only women's singles played during the day saw Mrs. Golda

ROSS ROCKING

Meyer Gross advance to the semi-final round at the expense of Peggy Jackson, of Victoria, 6-3, 6-1.

The mixed doubles events provided some excellent play and a couple of minor upsets. Playing fine tennis all the way through, Miss Dorothy Bundy, Santa Monica, and Ed Russell, Hollywood, broke through Miss Gracyn Wheeler, Santa Monica, and Harry Rosenberg, Tacoma, to win handily, 6-4, 6-2. Shortly afterwards, the strong combination of Mary and Don Campbell were eliminated by Mrs. R. B. Wilson and Dunc Williams, 6-2, 7-5, after a bitterly contested match. Other mixed doubles saw the defeat of Miss Jean Campbell and Harold Brown, of San Francisco, by Miss May Doeg, of Santa Monica, and Bob Underwood, Los Angeles, 6-4, 1-6, 6-3.

In the surprise match at the tournament, Bud Hocking stroked his way to victory in the first set, 6-3, apparently without difficulty. At no time during the set did he appear to be bothered by Dranga's wicked backhand shots or his cannonball services. Hocking played steadily and unhurriedly, never letting a point slip, and on no occasion allowing himself to become careless or over-confident.

SEATTLEITE WINS SECOND

The second set was Dranga's from start to finish. With grim face, he set himself to recover lost ground and pounded the local star unmercifully. He sent ace after sizzling ace across the net, and Hocking seemed unable to cope with them. Dranga took the first five games without a break, allowed Hocking to get past him twice and then took the set at 6-2.

The third set had the gallery in a fever of excitement. Hock- took the first two games without a great difficulty. Dranga won the next on his own service, and then Hocking ran through his opponent's defence for three more games to bring the set to 5-1. Dranga tightened up at this point and made a desperate rally. Time after time, Hocking had the match all but won, having match point four times, but each time Dranga's services got the better of him and he sent easy shots into the net. Finally he broke through, and with a beautiful placement, caught Dranga unprepared and finished the match.

The Hunt-Campbell match had its exciting moments, but Campbell could not fathom Hunt's cross-court plays, and time after time, played into his opponent's hands.

UNDERWOOD STARS

The men's doubles entered the semi-final round when Bob Underwood, Los Angeles, and B. Lichtenberger, San Francisco, played sparkling tennis to eliminate Mel Dranga and Wayne Sabin, 6-3, 6-3. The feature of the game was the marvelous overhead smashing of young Underwood, who was picking the shots out of the air from all angles and killing them with deadly precision. Dranga was badly off his game and was finding the net with a number of his shots.

Charlie Hunt and Ed Russell, both of San Francisco, earned the right to meet Underwood and Lichtenberger, today, by defeating Dunc Williams and Marsh Gordon in straight sets, 6-1, 6-2. The Southerners' combination was too smooth for the local players. They could not get past the Pacific Northwest doubles champions, who seemed almost to know each others thoughts.

Mrs. Golda Meyer Gross and Miss Gracyn Wheeler, of Santa Monica, entered the semi-final bracket of the women's doubles by defeating Miss Everall and Miss I. Benson, 6-1, 6-1, while Miss Helen Campbell and Miss Mona Miller also advanced, winning over Miss Jean Campbell and Miss Mildred Phillipson, 6-4, 6-1.

Veteran Pitcher Gives Advice to Budding Hurlers

DURHAM, N.C.—Young pitchers who wonder why they are so wild and apparently are unable to discover the reason would do well to take to heart the advice of Alex Ferguson, the veteran hurler now with the Wilmington Piedmont League mound corps, who was for many years in the major leagues. He declared, in a recent fanning bee, that it was because most young pitchers fail to keep their eyes on the batter—that they watch the man at the plate until they prepare to release the ball and then look every place except at the batter.

As a result, the delivery goes wild and a series of walks follows, declared Ferguson. The veteran twirler also believes that present-day hurlers get unduly excited in a pinch, and in attempting to retire the man at bat, make the pitch too good. Usually a long base hit results. Another fault he finds is the failure to realise that a team is composed of nine men and not the hurler alone. The smart pitcher tries to make the batters hit, depending on his fielders to help him out, but the youngster tries to strike out every batter facing him and then wonders why the outfielders don't climb the fences when blows crash against the higher boards of the outer walls.

Mangin and Shields Reach Tennis Final

SEABRIGHT, N.J., July 27 (AP). —A couple of seasoned campaigners in widely varied tennis wars—Gregory S. Mangin, of Newark, and Frank Shields, of New York—entrenched themselves in the final round of the renowned invitation grass court tournament of the Seabright Cricket and Tennis Club today.

Mangin reached peak form to outmanoeuver seventeen-year-old Frankie Parker in one semi-final, 6-3, 7-5.

Shields met a more stubborn opponent in Bryan "Bitsy" Grant, of Atlanta, Ga., who yesterday catapulted into prominence by his defeat of Wood, but the former Davis Cup ace finally won, 6-8, 6-4.

Races Scheduled at Colwood Track in September Not Going On

DEFINITE announcement was made yesterday by local racing officials that the meeting scheduled for Colwood track September 20 to 27 would not be put on. It was explained that the meet held in the Spring, following Willows, had been run in order to accommodate a number of the horse owners and that it had taken the place of the Fall meeting. This means that only one more week of racing will be held here at the Willows from September 9 to 16.

FIREMEN ARE DEFEATED BY CITY POLICE

Coppers Extinguish the Fire Fighters, 18 to 4—Over 1,200 Witness Game

The city police prowler squad rode rough shod over the city firemen yesterday evening at Royal Athletic Park before a crowd of more than 1,200, defeating the nozzle-wielders 18 to 4, despite the predictions of "Pepper" Clayards, manager for the fire extinguishers.

"Pepper" Clayards said his team would extinguish their opponents, but his brother, "Cougar" Clayards, manager for the police, replied that his opponent's vocabulary was a little twisted, and what was really meant was that the police would distinguish themselves. "Cougar" Clayard's interpretation of this profound remark from his brother proved to be correct.

"Smoky" Dave Donaldson, who shoots a wicked revolver besides pitching a tricky ball, fanned fireman after fireman. He fanned them so consistently that his services are now in demand for the next conflagration as official fanner for overheated firemen.

POLICE IN FORM

"Lefty" Robinson is not a hefty pitcher, and the firemen outfielders discovered this when the police batted his deliveries all over the lot, like a rookie shooting his revolver for the first time. Police turned in a good game for the special benefit of Chief of Police Thomas Heatley, who declared that to his knowledge the police made no errors. He added, however, that he had never played baseball, but would like to.

Mrs. Bertha Cody won the first prize for the best dressed lady attending the game and B. Burgess won first prize for being the best dressed man. Jack Knowles won first prize for being the best dressed boy.

Constable Fred Pook and Fireman Lieutenant J. Ready supervised the distribution of 2,000 all-day suckers to the children.

A collection was taken up during the game and $40 was subscribed to charity purposes. Chief Heatley announced that of this amount, $7.50 was used for expenses. The remainder will be used in distributing relief to children of destitute families. Police officers investigate each case, so that aid is given to genuine cases.

Wallace Simpson, secretary of the Twilight League, was the umpire.

WEST INDIES XI MAKE BIG TOTAL

NEWCASTLE, England, July 27 (CP).—The touring West Indies cricketers ran up a first-innings total of 440 runs, one of the best this season, in opening their two-day match with Northumberland here today. At the close of play Northumberland had scored 44 runs for three wickets.

JOE WRIGHT WINS TITLE AT REGATTA

Canadian Star Captures the Quarter-Mile Dash—Buffalo Crews Show Form

HENLEY COURSE, PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont., July 27 (CP).—A four-oared crew that packed enough stamina to win two national championships in two hours today sent Buffalo's youthful West Sides away to a thrilling start in their drive to retain club honors at the fifty-first Royal Canadian Henley Regatta.

Of fourteen events contested on the first day of the three-day meet, the blue-and-white garbed invaders won seven, three of them national titles.

Stroked by Eddie Swanson, a Buffalo crew that took the junior fours at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, were good enough to sweep to a four-length victory over Hamilton Leanders in the 150-pound event a bare two hours later. West Sides' other national crown came in the junior 140-pound fours, won by an outfit stroked by P. Bombicinio.

JOE WRIGHT WINS

Joe Wright, Jr., former Diamond Sculls holder, captured the only other national title at stake today when he finished two lengths ahead of Johnny Burnan, of Toronto Dons, in the quarter-mile sprint. His time was 1:14 1-5.

Apart from Wright and the junior Argonaut eight that won a heat to qualify, Toronto oarsmen made a dismal showing. In nine events, Torontonians finished last.

Three Maritime Province scullers qualified for the association singles final to be staged tomorrow. Dr. Wallace and R. L. Patterson, of Halifax M.C Macs, finished one-two in one heat, and R. Ingraham, of Saint John, N.B., was second to P. L. Brower, of Washington, in the other.

EXPLANATION FOR YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

In a Rowboat Across the Atlantic—In 1881 Ivar Olsen and John Traynor crossed from Bath, Maine to Le Havre, France, in the City of Bath, a fourteen-foot dory, of the type used by New England fishermen. The trip of approximately 3,000 miles required fifty-three days. Mr. Olsen, at present seventy-seven years old, now resides at 3333 Oakland Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.

A Grand Collection—For forty years the late E. H. Park, a draftsman and artist, roamed about the globe and as a hobby collected postcards that were descriptive of the history and geography of the world. The collection totals the astounding number of 257,000 cards, portraying in this unique way the history of practically every country and locality on earth.

Mr. Park, who died in 1928, left the collection in his old home at 4560 St. Claude Avenue, New Orleans, where it may be seen at the present time.

Steel and Rails Most Active in New York Mart

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP).—Broad advances in grain prices overshadowed efforts of stocks today, although shares managed to splurge in certain sections, notably steel and rail groups.

Sales for the three hours from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. totaled 2,489,170 shares, around half a million more than yesterday.

Rail stocks at one time got up 1 to 3 points or so, but finished mostly under their highs. Steels came forward at the finish in anticipation of an improved earnings statement by Bethlehem as well as the prospect of new business from the Government's naval construction.

United States Steel rose 2 1-4 net and Bethlehem 5 1-4; for Youngstown, Republic and National the gain was 1 1-2 to 1-2. General Motors encountered good support and rallied 1. Westinghouse, American Telephone, Chrysler, Sears-Roebuck, International Harvester, United States Rubber, Western Union, and Consolidated Gas were up fractions to more than 1 point. New York Shipbuilding jumped 2.

Case reflected the boom in grains with a rise of 3 1-2. United States Smelting slumped more than 7. The net gain in the averages was fractional.

Gold mining issues had their reaction when it was learned the American Government has ruled against exportation of any gold ore which has been through a smelting process, provided it was to be shipped only for its metallic content.

Losses Predominate At Close of Trading In Eastern Exchanges

MONTREAL, July 27 (CP).—While a majority of Montreal Stock Exchange showed some resistance to weakness in today's session, losses predominated at the close of trading.

International Nickel reached its high for the day during the morning in selling up to 20.60, but eased back during the afternoon to 19.50, closing at 20.20, off 30 cents.

Canadian Pacific Railway held a small gain during the morning, but eased off with the balance of the market in the late trading to finish unchanged at 17 1-2.

Brazilian Traction lost 3-8 at 14 7-8, while Montreal Power held firm at 38. Canadian Industrial Alcohol "A" was off 3-4 at 18 1-4, while the "B" spurted near the close to gain 1-2 at 17 1-2.

Consolidated Smelters, Shawinigan Power, Power Corporation, National Steel Car, McColl-Frontenac, Cockshutt Plow and Hamilton Bridge all eased a fraction. Royal Bank dipped 1 point.

Sales, 35,138 shares; bonds, $25,890.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO, July 27 (CP).—Toronto Stock Exchange developed no spectacular features today, trade dragging in practically all sections except in the metal shares, Nickel and Smelters. Nickel climbed to 20.75 early in the session, but all issue closing at 20.35. Smelters the gain was lost but 5 cents, the retained a gain of 2 at 131.

In the morning session, Walkers common and Distillers-Seagram added about 2 points but at the close, Walkers was up only 1 point at 36, Seagram was down a fraction, Canadian Industrial Alcohol down 1 full point to 18. Beer shares performed much the same.

All the oil shares closed unchanged except for a 1-4-point loss for McColl-Frontenac. Utilities leaned towards the downside, Bell Telephone dropping 1 point and Power Corporation and Union Gas small fractions.

Other inter-listed shares lolled through the session and C.P.R. and Brazilian each had a recession of a quarter point.

TORONTO MINING

TORONTO, July 27 (CP).—The strong tone developed by the senior gold group around mid-day on the Standard Mining Market petered out later and the close brought a mixture of narrow gains and losses.

Other groups indulged in a mild sell-off with the golds.

Early enthusiasm for Nickel, which ran the price up to 20.60, also flattened out and the big base metal closed 10c off at 20.15. Noranda did better, holding a 40c gain at 34.65. Hudson Bay lost 25.

Dome held a gain of 35c and Hollinger 5, but McIntyre lost 50c, Pioneer 90, Teck-Hughes 20, Bralorne 15 and Wright-Hargreaves and Lakeshore held unchanged.

Eldorado weakened 10c and other silver stocks were quiet. In the oil group recessions exceeded gains. Dalhousie lost 15, Calgary and Edmonton 17, Home Oil 31, Homestead 4, Associated 4, Nordon 1 and Royalite lost $1.

WHEAT PRICES SWEEP HIGHER

Futures Bought at Winnipeg in Large Volume Due to the Heat

WINNIPEG, July 27 (CP).—Wheat prices swept sharply higher on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today as buyers, viewing parched wheat areas of Western Canada, anticipated further deterioration due to continued hot weather and purchased futures in large volume.

Peak levels were only fractionally shaded by profit-taking and at the close the market showed gains ranging from 4 1-2 to 5 1-8 cents above the previous finish, July future at the close was worth 88 5-8 cents, October 90 1-8, December 92, and May 96 1-8. Aside from a short-lived selling wave after mid-session, offerings were decidedly light and values had no difficulty in holding their advance.

Support came from many and varied sources with selling attributed to profit taking. The advance was orderly and devoid of any wild rush to buy. Nevertheless, values quietly and steadily scrambled upward.

Export business was disappointing with only a few small, scattered lots being confirmed, though there appeared to be a little movement of Canadian wheat to the Continent.

SUBURBAN HEIGHTS — By GLUYAS WILLIAMS

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

FORMS OF INFERIORITY COMPLEX

A military officer, if he cares to study the matter, gets a real insight into the lives of the men and officers about him.

Major B. F. Duckwell of the United States Army, states that our real motives for behavior are unconscious, rather than conscious, and yet we attempt to justify these acts and give reasons for them. Thus, one with an inferiority complex, one who really believes himself to be beneath others socially, mentally, and physically, tries to develop a method of defence to secure a feeling of security.

There are the people with an exaggerated opinion of themselves, "nawl out" those of lesser rank on any slight excuse, and maintain a lofty attitude towards the rest of mankind.

Then there are those who work themselves to the point of exhaustion to satisfy an inward feeling of incompetence.

Others who oppose everything as a matter of habit, and others who by criticizing others feel that they are raising themselves.

Finally there are the "boot lickers" who are always attempting to get on the right side of their superiors.

How do the actions of these people reveal themselves to the onlooker? The onlooker can place each of these types of individuals in one of the above-mentioned classes, because of their everyday actions with others.

Now this doesn't mean that every man and woman who has these feelings at times is not a good type, because, as a matter of fact, most of us are apt to do things at times that would put us in one of the above classes.

However, and this is the point Major Duckwell makes, the real leader in life may have some of these "defence" characteristics at times but he fights them off, and inspires confidence, co-operation, enthusiasm and tireless effort on the part of those serving under him, apparently with little difficulty.

I believe that a study of the above classes of individuals would be helpful to all of us, for it would seem that at different times we might, if we were honest, find ourselves in one or the other of these classes.

Let us try, therefore, to always fight our "defence mechanisms" as they are called, and be ourselves, our best selves.

"SECOND THOUGHTS ARE BETTER THAN FIRST"

We have an inquiry for the origin of this old saying which most of us learned at our mother's knee, in support of looking before we leap, stopping to think, giving mature consideration rather than snap judgments in coming to important decisions.

The words appear in speech and literature over centuries, the reference of Fisher Ames in 1788 to "the sober second thought of the people" being much quoted. The origin of the expression, however, takes us back to classical antiquity, their author being the Greek tragic poet, Euripides, who in his "Hippolytus," said:

"Second thoughts are ever wiser." This dates the fifth century B.C.

CHICAGO WHEAT REACHES LIMIT

Wheat Prices Jump Upward to Extreme Allowed by Emergency Rules

CHICAGO, July 27 (AP).—Wild sky-rocketing of prices whirled the wheat market up 8 cents a bushel toward the zenith today, the extreme rise that emergency rules would allow.

Renewed big speculative buying on the part of the general public took place. Increasingly sensational bad crop reports from Canada and the American Northwest aroused buyers to a fever point.

Wheat closed flurried, 7⅜-8 cents above yesterday's finish; corn, 3¼-4⅛ cents up; oats, 3½-4 cents advanced; and provisions varying from 40 cents decline to a rise of 10 cents.

From the outset all future deliveries were far above $1.00 a bushel, and May touched $1.15, up 17⅜ cents from last week's low point.

Y.W.C.A. to Have New Gymnasium

The Y.W.C.A. has made plans to erect a new gymnasium building adjacent to the annex on Courtney Street, and details of the plans were discussed at a meeting of the Y.W.C.A. board on Wednesday afternoon. Percy Fox, architect, is preparing the plans for the building, which will cost approximately $15,000.

The gymnasium itself will measure fifty-eight feet by ninety-five feet and will have a gallery, locker rooms and general accommodation. Great interest is being taken in the new addition to the Y.W.C.A., and the need for more adequate accommodation for indoor sports has been felt for some time.

GOODRICH MAKES NEW SILVERTOWN

Golden Safety Ply Said to Be Greatest Advancement in 15 Years

What is said to be the greatest development in the manufacture of automobile tires since the advent of the black tread, has been announced by Canadian Goodrich Co., Ltd. That is the "Life-Saver Golden Ply," a heat-resisting rubberized cord fabric beneath the tread of Goodrich Silvertown tires to prevent the heat of friction from affecting the body rubber and causing blow-outs.

"Goodrich, whose research engineers developed the black tread in 1915 and at the same time increased the wearing qualities of the tire by the addition of carbon black, have overcome one of the worst hazards of modern motoring," says Tergeson Bros., Goodrich tire dealers here.

"This new golden rubber is compounded to combat heat caused by internal friction of the tire.

"In addition to resisting heat, this new rubber binds the tire carcass and tread into a single unit, inseparable even under the most grueling service conditions to which any automobile tire ever has been subjected."

The new "Golden Ply" is used in all Goodrich Silvertown tires and is available without added cost to the consumer.

"Just how this new principle is applied can be seen in a cross-section of the new Safety Silvertown now displayed in our service station, corner Fort and Blanshard Streets.

"Demonstration shows the adhesion quality of the new rubber as compared with ordinary black rubber used in most tires and clearly indicates the added protection provided by this remarkable discovery."

CHAPTER LVIII

A narrow path came out of the wood, a ribbon of footsteps that had blurred each other in the snow. It looked a lonely place for such a path, with the great white moor waiting for the moon.

Two figures emerged from the shadows behind the straight tree-trunks, walked some fifty paces, and then turned to look at the sunset. The man's figure stood out gaunt, black, and tall. The girl beside him was wrapped in a scarlet cloak, and her white face looked out from the oval of the upturned hood. They were beyond the long shadows thrown by the pine wood on the snow, standing very close together.

"Look at the bits of yellow light between the trunks of the trees. They are like the windows of a church on a dark night."

"The sun's going, Jess. Come along; I am not going to let you stay out after dusk."

"But it's your last day here, John."

"Is that any reason why I should let you catch cold!"

He swung her round with one arm over her shoulders, and they walked with their faces turned towards the grey East.

"I am glad it was like this, John, and not rain and a wet sky."

"It makes the memory more vivid."

They walked on in silence, Jess sunk in a reverie—the white world before her. She was striving to see the future as she desired to see it, both for herself and for the man.

"John, I want to ask you a question."

"Well?"

"Are you sure you don't regret all that happened in Navestock?"

"Quite sure."

"I don't think I was ever so miserable in my life as when you told me they had turned against you. Oh, it was mean! Every morning I wake up, and say to myself, 'It was my fault. I have spoiled his career.'"

"Say something else for a change."

"But in your heart of hearts, John——"

The arm over her shoulders drew her closer.

"Jess, you have given me the biggest uplift I have ever had in life. I suppose I am an ambitious man. I see now that in a few years I might have been like a bear in a cage if I had stayed down yonder. The bigger the thing we set ourselves to do, the better we do it."

"You can't help being ambitious."

He looked down at her with a light in his eyes.

"Hardly."

"No, I mean——"

"I want to give you a life you can be proud of, so that other people may envy you a very little."

"John, dear lad! But envy——"

"It is one of the finest spices in life. To see your enemies look dour and savage."

"What, you feel that? I have felt it for you. Was it wrong?"

"I don't think so."

The chimneys of Moor Farm sent up a film of smoke above the tangled branches of the orchard trees. The tops of the two cypresses still caught the sunlight.

"I know you will succeed, John. I have no doubts at all."

He said very quietly and without arrogance: "Yes, I shall succeed."

They came to the end of the holly hedge, and turned for a last time to look at the sunset. The level splendour beat upon their faces—the man's gaunt, confident, adventurous; the girl's, proud and full of a smiling valour.

John Wolfe walked out of the new red-brick station at Navestock and found an open carriage drawn by a couple of greys waiting for him in the road. A man-servant touched his hat, held out a hand for Wolfe's bag, and opened the carriage door.

"Dr. Wolfe, sir?"

"Yes."

The red-brick railway station had been built in one of the Wraith meadows, and as the two greys went at a fast trot along the road between the willows, Wolfe turned and looked back at Navestock town. The Lombardy poplars close by the house where old Josiah Crabbe had lived, still towered up into the blue. The town was the same red-roofed, deliberate old place with Peachy Hill and Turrell's brewery dominating the two main quarters like the strongholds of high-handed Roman nobles.

Wolfe smiled, and turned his eyes towards Moor Farm. There were the two cypresses in the distance, and the familiar outlines of Tarling Moor, but the old life had broken away from there and had become a mere memory.

Before him rose the cedars of "Pardons," the oaks and beeches in the park, the red chimneys, the black yew hedges. He could see the fish-ponds flashing in the sunlight, and the Alderney cows grazing in the meadows beyond.

The carriage carried him up the drive and drew up before the house. It struck him as a dream-house that had been sleeping all these years while the seasons came and went and the leaves burgeoned—changed and fell.

He found himself walking up the oak staircase and thinking of the day when he had been called in to set young Aubrey Brandon's leg. A door opened showing him a large room full of a mellow light that made the sheen of the polished furniture and the colors in the carpet and on the walls look rich and warm. A nurse was standing by a window. A grey-haired man rose from a chair, bowed to Wolfe, and then held out a hand.

Wolfe's eyes wandered towards the bed, and he saw Ursula Brandon smiling at him. Her face looked as pale and her hair as miraculous as ever, but there were lines of pain about her mouth, and crows-feet about her eyes.

"I am so glad you have come. This is Dr. Phipps of Wannington. You may just remember him."

"Yes, quite well."

The elder man looked pleased.

Half an hour later Ursula Brandon was lying back upon her pillows with the look of one who was experiencing a feeling of intense relief. She glanced at the nurse and smiled, and the nurse smiled back at her. Dr. Phipps and Wolfe were talking in undertones in the next room.

"You think she will be all right?"

"I am practically certain of it."

"I will write—should any other symptoms arise. I am very glad to have met you here."

The country practitioner shook hands and departed, and Wolfe returned to the other room. Ursula Brandon had said something to the nurse, for she went softly out, closing the door after her.

"Do you know, I feel at once that you are an old friend."

"I'm glad."

"Some people make one feel like that. Come and sit down here, and talk."

Wolfe drew up a chair, and the light from one of the windows fell full upon him. Womanwise she was studying him, noticing every subtle detail, whether there were any lines on his broad forehead, any reticence in his eyes. He had changed very little, save that there were some grey hairs about his temples, and his clothes were well cut.

"I felt that I must have you to see me. I was getting anxious about myself. And I have always had great faith in you, in spite of the fact that you are one of the big men."

He smiled at her.

"This is the first time I have been in Navestock since——"

"Yes—twelve years! Good heavens! And Aubrey is with his regiment in India—and I——"

"I don't think you have altered much."

"Now, that's charming of you. Nor have you—only—somehow—you look bigger."

She met his eyes and held them.

"I sent for you because I know you can tell the truth. So many of these doctors——"

"Yes——"

"Do you think I shall get well? Tell me."

He answered without hesitation.

"In my opinion you will, most certainly."

Something seemed to relax within her, some cord of strain. Her face became younger, smoother, more peaceful. She looked towards the windows and sighed.

"Life is good. I used not to care much whether I lived or not, but now—I have found out some of the secrets. Tell me all about yourself—and Jess."

Wolfe's eyes appeared to fill with light.

"We had our struggle, and I think it made us all the happier. Jess has a little country place now down near Guildford where the youngsters make hay and ride an old pony and pester their grandmother. Harley Street? Oh, yes, I get away when I can, or rather I should say, 'we.' I don't think we care much for the social side of things; we're much too interested in real life. I have to work pretty hard, and I like to be with her and the children."

Ursula Brandon was regarding him intently.

"Yes, I can see it all. You are one of the rare men who marry the right woman, and continue to think her just the one woman in the world."

He met her eyes and smiled.

"I have had plenty of excuses. She has helped me more than I can tell you."

"Yes, but what a blessing that you had the strength to answer such a challenge."

"You mean——?"

She spoke very softly, almost to herself.

"The challenge of such a love. Most men fail us. So often that is the tragic side of life for women."

Wolfe apeared to reflect a moment.

"I don't think we were for ever pulling our happiness to pieces to see if it was the same as ever."

"Oh, you direct, happy, purposeful people!"

"Besides, life has been too full. We had to struggle, and we went up the hill together."

His eyes shone out suddenly, and she saw that life had softened him, rubbed away some of the rough and fanatical edges.

"By George, I wish you could see the youngsters. I think you would like the little beggars."

Her pale face flushed, but he was looking out of the window at the cedars, and he did not see it.

"You wife shall bring them down here this Summer. Yes, and I think you ought to come, too, if you can spare a few days. You must explore Navestock. You will find a great many changes."

"For the better?"

"I think so. You know, you started the new tradition, and even the Turrells could not kill it. Josiah Crabbe and I became quite good friends before he died."

"Someone kept the tradition alive."

He looked down at her and smiled, and her eyes flashed up to his with a sudden strange pride.

"Yes, I kept it alive. What is more, it kept me alive, also."

THE END

What Today Means

"LEO"

If July 28 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6:45 to 8 a.m. from 6:15 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. and from 10 p.m. to 11 p.m. The danger periods are from 9:30 a.m. to 10:35 a.m., from 3:30 p.m. to 4 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 8:40 p.m.

It is possible that information will come into your possession on this July 28 that is not meant for you. Do not seek to use it to your advantage, for the chances are that the results will prove disastrous. You will probably find that directness and absolute frankness in your dealings with those of the opposite sex will prove most effective. Avoid quarrels with loved ones.

The child born on this July 28 will quite likely make unreasonable demands upon his parents. Do not let this little one have his own way too much and take care not to coddle him. You will most likely have to be most tactful in your manner of correcting him. Inclined to be resentful.

If July 28 is the date of your birth, it is more than likely that you are a person who uses good common sense in all matters. You are not one to become upset or to get rattled when things go a bit wrong or the tide turns strongly against you. Adversity stimulates you and spurs you on to greater endeavors. Luck will play a minor part in your life, and Lady Luck will but rarely smile or frown at you. Things will just work out for you all along the way, due to your industry, sound judgment and perspicacity. Your life will be a gradual unfoldment and development, with bigger and better things coming more and more your way. You will not care overly for fame and notoriety, but you will probably have to stand for a goodly amount of publicity and you will have to come into the public eye more than you will care for.

Born on July 28, you will probably appeal strongly to those of the opposite sex. Others will not be attracted because of your physical self, but because of the goodness and kindness of love that seems to flow from you. Your calm and spiritual presence brings rest and comfort to the sick and otherwise afflicted who come within the radius of your attentions. You love with your heart and also with your mind. No one will appeal to you as a mate who cannot meet you on your own mental plane. You will choose wisely and your married days should be unusually happy and fruitful ones.
